No decision on sewers

NEW LENOX — Bids on the interceptor sewer that will serve the Levitt and Sons planned unit development at New Lenox were received from four contractors with Blaine Saxton, Mokena, apparently having the low figure. The village board at its regular session last Wednesday voted to let the contract to Saxton but whether Saxton gets it had not been decided at this time.

Under the pre-annexation agreement Levitt and Sons has with the village of

New Lenox the developer has the right to reject or accept any of the bids submitted. The village board appointed the village engineer, Robert E. Hamilton, to meet with the Levitt people and arrive at an agreement. An early call, Hamilton said, indicated there would be approval but first the Levitts wanted to check all the figures.

At noon on Monday, however, the Levitt people were reportedly looking at the bid of the John Burns Construction Co., of Orland Park with more friendly eye than they were casting on the Saxton's figures.

And the reason, according to Hamilton, was the figure on the rock work. Levitt people contend there will be less rock work necessary (digging in rock) than the village engineer's estimate and Saxton contends there will be more. On the other hand Barnes is figuring on less rock work. His cost on rock is higher but if his estimate of the amount of work is correct Levitt and Sons would save $349 over the Saxton bid while the Burns bid would cost the Village of New Lenox $12,782 more than it would if Saxton has the contract.

The contract calls for a 24-inch interceptor. This is larger than is needed just to serve the Levitt development. It would serve Cherry Hill, Cherry Hill Estates, Cherry Hill Manor and the proposed Barr commercial property. Under the pre-annexation agreement Levitt and Sons is to pay something over 75 per cent of the cost and the village will pay the difference, because the oversize main will be to the advantage of the community, it was explained.

Saxton's original base bid was $197,269 but he said he would give a discount of $20,000, if awarded the contract within five days. The reasons for this, Saxton explained to the board, are that he has all his equipment on hand (he is finishing up the work on the village's water system) and this would give him an early start on the job as well as save the cost of bringing in equipment. The Burns base bid was $189,702; J. Marich and Sons, of Lemont, bid $199,575 and P.T. Ferro Construction Co., Joliet, was high with a bid of $309,013.

Alternate bids were also taken. This is the figure — that of the alternate bid — that Levitt and Sons is to pay. In the case of Saxton the alternate figure is $142,408 while that of Burns was $142,059.

On the other hand under the Saxton bid the village's share would be $34,861 while under the Burns figure, Hamilton said, it would be $12,400 more or $47,261.

The village will readvertise for bids on iron settlement tanks. None were received following the original advertisement.

4-H fair next week

WILLCOUNTY — It is fair time again for the hundreds of members of the 61 4-H Clubs of Will County. It is to be held at Francis Field on Francis Road, about half a mile east of Cedar Road in New Lenox Township next week.

Monday will be devoted to getting grounds and buildings ready. The first day of the fair is really Tuesday, July 18. Friday, July 22, will be a clean-up day, with a 4-H dog show in the evening, and a 4-H horse show starting at 9 a.m. Saturday, July 22, will be the curtain-dropper.

These annual exhibitions of skills, produce and livestock by 4-H boys and girls always draw a large number of spectators. There is no admission charge and many find it well worth their while to travel miles to attend the fair.

The exhibition hall will be open at 9 a.m. for those with entries in the advanced foods competition, and of course the judges. The public can get in at noon but meanwhile they can find things to occupy their attention at the barns. There will be poultry, rabbits, sheep and swine shows at the barns.

It will be well in the afternoon before the judging is completed at the barns, it was said. Meanwhile, back at the exhibition hall there will be a bake sale starting at noon. Beginning at 2 p.m. the flower arrangement competition is to get underway.

On Wednesday morning will be busy on a myriad of projects to be seen in the main hall of the exhibition buildings while in one of the side rooms where equipment is available competitors will vie for the honor of going to the state fair at Springfield to compete in the food demonstration.

Wednesday is also dairy day and the judging of dairy cattle is scheduled to begin in the barns at 10 a.m.

Thursday, July 20, will be a big day. It will be devoted to judging beef cattle, beginning at 9 a.m. At 8:30 a.m. the final selection will be started on clothing to be shown at the state fair. There was judging this week on all clothing projects. This judging dealt with the craftsmanship exhibited by the contestants — in brief, how well was the exhibit made. Next Thursday the 4-H'ers will model the clothing they made, with the dress revue starting at noon. So far boys have not competed in the clothing projects at the Will County 4-H Fair but there are plenty of girls who compete in the livestock events.

Thursday night, beginning at 7:30 in the Exhibition Hall there will be demonstrations of the best in the show, including the modeling of the dresses picked to represent Will County at the state fair.

The entertainment adjudged best at previous competitions also will be given Thursday night.

As mentioned previously, Friday will be clean-up day at the grounds. Each 4-H club has been assigned certain duties to perform (Editor's Note: And strange to relate these days the 4-H'ers turn out and turn to as directed) and Friday night, starting at 6:30 the dog show will begin.

The horse show is slated to start at 9 a.m. Saturday, July 22. It is difficult to arrive at attendance figures for the 4-H Fair, according to those in charge, because it is one of those things at which people come and go and since there are no tickets it is difficult to say who many attend but the event is always well attended.

Freeway meeting tomorrow night

NEW LENOX — State highway officials will give New Lenox residents facts about the proposed north and south leg of the new freeway that is to come down on New Lenox from the north and then take an easterly course south of here, at a meeting here Thursday night, July 13.

The meeting time is 7:30 o'clock in the Oakview School gymnasium. Mayor Joseph Hartung announced to council members at their meeting last Wednesday.

There will be another meeting, a public hearing, July 25, at Lincoln-Way High School when the east-west project will be reviewed and the alternate routes discussed. The public will have an opportunity to express their views. Maps and drawings will be on display. The north leg will come down from Lake County, slices through DuPage and a bit of Cook counties and into Will. The east-west route will hook up with the north-south and the Calumet expressway, according to present plans.

The east west corridor is about five miles wide, it was said, and the route could be located any place within it. There is variance too in the north-south way.

Police to conduct survey

FRANKFORT — The Frankfort police department is to make a traffic survey in the village, using main arteries of travel to conduct it, Trustee Richard Trevathan announced at Monday's meeting of the village board. When he was appointed to make the survey Trevathan had planned to make use of the Illinois Municipal League's offer to conduct such research as a service to its community members. However, Trevathan learned that Frankfort would have to be placed on a list and wait its turn.

Not having any idea as to when Frankfort's turn would come, Trevathan conferred with the police department; and it was decided the village would conduct its own survey.

The study will cover the origin and the destination of drivers of every type of vehicle, including bicycles, buses and motorcycles. Special attention will be given trucks and they will be listed according to type, number of axles and all other pertinent details. When the survey will be started and the length of its duration, whether 24 hours or a week, will be announced later.

The village is asking all drivers to cooperate. Trevathan said drivers would be spared as much inconvenience as possible.

Such a survey, it was said, might be of considerable use to the village in settling some of its traffic difficulties.

Honeymoon nearly ends in poisoning

MOKENA — The wedding trip of the Mark Muellers, Mokena, almost ended in tragedy at Manistee, Mich., where the newlyweds became victims of carbon monoxide poisoning. Both had recovered sufficiently to resume their trip last Thursday, a camping journey to the north.

A charcoal brazier was responsible. Married July 1, the couple left Mokena July 3, traveling in a van-type camper. It became quite cold that night and they made a charcoal fire in a brazier to warm the van.

Apparently they did not think of the lethal possibilities of such a fire in enclosed quarters and dropped off to sleep. Mrs. Mueller, the former Patricia Sokolowski, was sleeping near the door and apparently got some air. She awoke, and feeling ill and nauseated, went to the rest room of the camping ground. She returned to the van and shortly afterwards became ill again.

This time she attempted to rouse her husband but could not awaken him.

Thinking they were victims of food poisoning Mrs. Mueller sought help and received directions to the hospital at Manistee. She drove the van — the brazier still burning — to the hospital. There it was ascertained that the two were suffering from carbon monoxide poisoning.

Because she had acquired more fresh air then had her husband, Mrs. Mueller recovered more quickly. Mueller, however, remained unconscious all of Tuesday and part of Wednesday. His circulation was also affected.

Mall clearance sought

MOKENA — The Mokena Chamber of Commerce has sent a letter to the village trustees asking that the village aid in clearing the parking mall along the Rock Island tracks of some old concrete foundations that once supported a building.

The mall extends from Mokena Street west between Front Street and the tracks. The team tracks that had traversed a part of the space were removed by the railroad recently. Now if the old foundations can be taken out, the Chamber points out, the entire area can be graded and the chamber will install parking stops.

Those in charge believe that the parking stops will bring order to the parking and eliminate some of the confusion and congestion that now occurs when the commuters arrive.

The Mokena Chamber had its regular meeting Monday noon in the form of a luncheon at Jardine's Restaurant, Tinley Park. Anthony Dina, president of the chamber, presided. It was his first outing since he was released from Silver Cross Hospital last Sunday, after undergoing treatment for gout.

It was announced that the chamber will set a policy on contributions it may make to individuals or organizations, establishing maximums. The next meeting will also be at noon at Jardine's, Aug. 7, it was announced.

Frankfort budget close to double that of last year

FRANKFORT — The Frankfort village board at its meeting Monday night adopted the appropriation ordinance for the 1972-73 fiscal year. Total of the appropriations comes to $663,905. Last year's ordinance provided for expenditures of $385,550.

The reason for this difference, it was pointed out, is that there are several large items in the current budget in the event the funds become available, it was explained by Village Attorney August J. Santoro, who drafted the ordinance after the trustees had estimated the needs of their departments.

For instance this year there is an item of $130,000 for a new water storage tank and $35,000 for a new well, pump and pump house.

The village board is agreed that the water and sewer systems must be expanded to meet future demands and should money be forthcoming it is prepared to start on the water end. One of the sources for such funds is from surplus revenues from the sale of water and treatment of sewage, after amounts are placed in the various funds provided by ordinance.

Another source is the service fees set up by the village. These fees include the tap-on charges for water and sewer and if acreage is involved a charge of so much an acre is made. This money is set aside for use in improving the water and sewer systems. There is also a sum of $25,000 earmarked for remodeling the village hall and $30,000 for repairs and improvements to the building purchased by the village across the street diagonally from the village hall.

There are several organizations in the village, it was revealed, who are interested in utilizing space in this building for their various activities. The village is in favor of this, it has been brought out at the board meetings, but there is work that must be done if the building is to be given full use. Of course, some of the space will be used by the village for storage of equipment, including motor trucks and vehicles.

It costs the village approximately $12,000 a year for street lighting and $25,000 is set aside for labor and material for streets, and another $10,000 from the sale of vehicle tags is set down for street maintenance, according to the budget.

It was explained by Village Attorney Santoro that the sum set forth as the total of an appropriation ordinance does not mean that the village will spend that amount. All possible expenditures must be set forth in the appropriation ordinance, otherwise they couldn't be made, even if the money were available. Most taxing bodies set their budget totals high just in case they do have a windfall, it was pointed out.

Zoning petition fee goes up

FRANKFORT — The filing fee for a zoning petition in the Village of Frankfort has been raised from $100 to $150.

A petition asking for this increase in fees filed by the village board was approved by the Zoning Board of Appeals, and naturally, the recommendation was concurred in by the village trustees at their meeting Monday night.

Proceedings of the zoning board are now taken and transcribed by a court reporter. This and other costs left the village picking up part of the tab with the $100 fee in force. Hence the raise to $150.

The zoning board also recommended granting the petition of Alois Bogdon for reclassifying all of Block 16, at the southwest corner of Locust and Pacific streets, from I-1 and R-1 to R-1-A.

Bogdon was quoted by the zoning board that he is selling the land to Russell Ropke. The parcel is less than five acres in area and there are 12 lots.

Ropke now has plans for two duplexes, according to the zoning board's report.

The village board concurred in the zoning board's recommendation. Relative to subdivisions, it was reported to the village board Monday night that Commonwealth Edison workers installing a power line to Colorado Hills development brought it in above ground, which is contrary to village ordinance. From the meager reports the board had, the utility company representatives were quoted as saying that they could not supply both Colorado Hills and Tanglewood subdivisions if the power had to be brought in underground.

Law requires bikes must have reflectors

SPRINGFIELD — New bikes those sold after July 1, 1973, are supposed to show a revolving light pattern after dark, according to a bill signed into law by Governor Ogilvie.

The pedals on such bikes or any replacement pedals are to be equipped with reflectors. The governor also signed a companion bill to the effect that beginning July 1, 1973 all bicycles sold must be equipped with reflectors on the front and rear. "Because of the popularity of bicycle riding," the governor said, "we must be certain that bicyclists are well seen and protected. A reflector on each pedal is one of the best safety devices we could add to the vehicle.

"Motorists will be better able to see the circular moving light on the pedals that the ones which are now on the fenders. It is my hope motorists will be cautious when driving, especially at night, and look out for the bicyclists."

Police in various communities receive complaints that too many bicyclists riding at night, especially children, are without any type of light.

The YMCA camp arrow seems to be pointing to the proposed 120-acre dump site proposed for the northeast corner of the intersection of McCarthy Road and Will-Cook Road, northwest of Orland Park. The Holy Family Villa, the YMCA Camp, residences and forest preserves would be the neighbors of the garbage hill.

Garbage battles being fought on many fronts

Landfill is how the southwest suburbs now dispose of their solid wastes. These are filling rapidly and it is difficult to have new ones approved. HERALD Reporter Mary Straub in her fourth article on the solid waste problem reports on a proposed landfill near the Village of Worth.

By Mary Straub
(Fourth in a series)

In Southwest Cook County local battles are being fought on various garbage fronts. Dissent centers on whether or not landfill companies will dump where they will, often too close for the comfort of the public. Scavenger companies complain about trying to keep their costs down while having no easily accessible location at which to deposit what is picked up at the doors of homes, institutions and commercial places.

Mrs. Ruth Cantwell, environmentalist and spokeswoman for interested Worth citizens, two weeks ago mailed a 3,000 signature petition to Springfield in protest against Harry Carlson, landfill operator proposing to lease property of the Worth Sand and Gravel Co., 7545 W. 111th St.

This pit, owned by Sam Berg, is adjacent to residential areas. It would receive tons of solid waste refuse each week from southwest communities where Carlson's trucks operate.

June 9, 1972 ended a conditional year's permit given by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to Carlson, during which time he was to start preparing the site for the reception of solid waste. If this preparation was not done as specified, he would not get an extension from EPA.

Part of the preparation was the monitoring wells; these wells would show the water level quality and direction of flow for determining pollution possibilities.

On June 14, said Mrs. Cantwell, she accompanied EPA inspector Rene Von Someron of the Aurora office, two Worth village officials and a Palos Reporter correspondent for the site inspection.

Said Mrs. Cantwell, "We had been informed that the wells were in but that we couldn't make a tour of the site. On a later date we managed to survey the wells. We found that they are being dug all right, but they are in the wrong places."

"I'm challenging them on this point — the wells are not where they reported them to be to the state."

Mrs. Cantwell also contends that it is business as usual at the Berg gravel pit. "Gravel is being hauled out every day, yet Carlson claims he has graded and the pit is being readied to receive the refuse."

According to landfill engineering, trenches are dug for the deposits. They are usually pre-determined to be seepage-proof because of an adequate indigenous clay reinforcement. Water sampling periodically must prove that the original approval for the site which was based on negative water pollution possibility was a sound one.

Harry Carlson remarked to the HERALD reporter that he does not think it a crime to have the gravel pit operating in that capacity presently. He said the situation is awaiting the outcome of the lawsuit he brought against the Village of Worth last April. Worth, said Carlson, can exert no direct control over his landfill operation because Worth has no home rule.

Mrs. Cantwell quoted EPA representative Von Someron as saying he would never return to the Berg site. He advised Mrs. Cantwell to bring her evidence and objections direct to the state agency, "because this is a political mess."

In Palos Park the siege of ski-mountain began in earnest in May when a landfill company, Incinerator, Inc., petitioned the village to rezone 120 acres at McCarthy and Will-Cook Roads from residential to industrial. The company petitioning for this forest preserve site, and groups of enraged neighboring citizens, homeowners and institutional representatives are rallying forces for the second hearing to be held on August 11 at Carl Sandburg high school.

At the May hearing Richard Haught, attorney for the applicant introduced several specialists in areas relating to the choice preparation of and overall operation of landfill sites. These presentations lasted a total of four hours and in general painted a positive, worry free picture of the future landfill operation.

Art Adams of the dissenting Homeowner's Association formed by various Palos Township groups recently expressed this association's unanimous opinion, "We know garbage needs to be disposed of, but why in Palos again? Five dumps, both presently in use and obsolete have been located in Palos over the past several years. We feel someone else should get this one."

Adams, on second thought, remarked that a landfill would not be nearly so bad a proposal as the 200-foot trash hill which is to become a ski-mountain.

In the meantime, officials of municipalities not directly involved with either of the two mentioned sites — except that their garbage may be transported to them — are being to "think solution." Mayor Fred Dumke of Oak Lawn will be calling a meeting of southwest suburban mayors to discuss plans for an incinerator facility that he and the mayors of Evergreen Park and Chicago Ridge have been considering.

He has stated that information from this meeting should be released within the next 10 days.

Library serves 67,413

ORLAND PARK — Carl Sandburg High School library served 4,642 students in September '71, and reached a peak in February '72 when they served 10,808, compiling a total for the months between September and April of 67,413.

The number of classes served between these months, according to Mrs. E. Hult Library Coordinator, was 497, the days open 146, the books circulated 12,114 and books added were over 2,500.

North Central Standards require that in schools enrolling 2,000 or more pupils, five per cent, but not less than 140 pupils should be seated, and Sandburg's library meets this requirement with 149 seats for its enrollment of 2,700 students. North Central Standards are also met with the 11,900 required volumes plus two books for each student over 2,000. Sandburg's library now has over 25,000 books.

However, with the enlarged school enrollment in the fall, the new freshman library, which will be the size of two classrooms, will meet the increasing need, she comments, and adds that "it will be a very small sub-station, and contain approximately 4,000 to 5,000 books."

The Carl Sandburg library staff attempts to present ideas and curriculum materials in a wide variety of media. Plans call for, and are under way for building up and organizing records, cassettes, and other learning aides for students and teacher use in the library so that it becomes a true resource center.

The library has added a reader-printer this year which is proving popular and very useful. The library already has microfilm readers for its extensive collection of periodicals on microfilm. This is a heavily used area for library research at Sandburg.

On second thought

Computerized humans?

By Glenn Logan

The business section of one of the metropolitan dailies carried a story last week in which one of the computer manufacturer predicts that its gadget will do a lot of things for man in the next 10 years.

We tell you this so you will be prepared to guard yourself accordingly. This computer factory says it will bring the computer, which has served big organizations, not only to small organizations but to individuals as well. And this is not just an idle threat.

It would be a fine thing if our space explorers could find a planet that would sustain human life because if individuals are to be saved from being converted into an automation bearing a number instead of a name through the efforts of Big Brother, Bleeding Hearts and Machines, headed by the Computer Brigade, they are going to have to find a new place to live.

This talk of bringing computers to the people or people to the computer should make one shudder.

There are lots of people now that are being harassed by computers operated by the credit departments of stores and corporations. People get bills for things they never had; they get bills for bills they have paid, and they get other people's bills that may be paid or unpaid.

Then begins a long period of correspondence on the part of the person billed. He points out there is an error. He didn't get the things that had been charged to his account, or he paid the bill for which he was billed and has a receipt or a cancelled check as proof.

Usually his protests are ignored and the only correspondence from the biller is usually a curt notice that unless he pays in the 24 hours, or week, or maybe 10 days his account will be put in the hands of a collection agency or the firm's attorney is ready to file suit.

If he persists, or if he possesses clout, he may eventually be exonerated and asked to please excuse the computer—it has made a mistake.

According to the piece in the paper computers are now in their adolescence stage and when they mature there will be no end to what they can do.

One of the things predicted for computers is that they will solve social programs. The people that build computers also see the time when they will take over a lot of police chores, including the regulating of traffic. They are expected to plot and control pollution, project flood dangers, and get into the fields of higher education, medicine and the law, including the work of courts.

The time may come when all cars will be equipped with computers so that the owner, by merely pushing a few buttons, can embark on a journey that may take him to his office, a shopping center, or across the continent without the necessity of him shifting a lever or laying a hand on the steering wheel.

Given time police will be able to arrest a criminal, interrogate, try and convict him all by computers and have him transported to a prison where he is supervised and guarded by more computers.

Instead of students the institutions of higher learning could teach computers and the computers in turn could take over. They could do all the engineering, serve as physicians, surgeons, scientists, lawyers, etc.

The only thing about this picture of the wonderful world of the computer, as I understand it, is that the programming is done by humans and you know that old line. . . "to err is human."

The Delphi Oracle was ancient man's computer and it came up with more misses than hits because a human being was the voice.

I am not ready to accept the computer as infallible. So far none has come up with a formula for a paint that won't peel, and that shouldn't be the toughest problem the world has to solve.

Letters to the Editor

To The Citizens of Oak Forest:

Thank you for your response to the Lake Michigan Water Survey. Out of more than 4,000 ballots sent, almost 3,000 responses were received. Eighty per cent of our citizens voted "Yes".

Whatever the vote, it is absolutely clear that Oak Forest is a community where the citizens are involved and are not hesitant about expressing their opinions.

This is as it should be.

Again, thank you for your participation.

BERNARD J. KELLY

Editor:

Probably the most interesting thing about the criticism levelled at the Park District is the fact that the letter writers were until recently among the most determined and vociferous supporters of the District. Then Judy Cipolla's marriage to Park Commissioner Phil Cipolla went on the rocks. No sooner were the parties separated than Judy emerged as the leader of the "anti-everything" group and there has been no end to her efforts to criticize and oppose the Park District. This was also contemporaneous with her announcement that she intended to run for the Park District Board against her ex's friends on the Board.

In light of all the areas of effort by the District including construction of a new building, land acquisition for future Park sites, development of new Parks and equipping them, a comprehensive program in dozens of areas including ice skating, football, track, etc. a truly impartial reading of the letter reveals a tempest in a tea pot.

The worst part of the letter is the omission of the single material fact that the same group of ladies organized the girl's softball program under the auspices of the Park District, THEN REFUSED TO ACCEPT THE DISTRICT'S CHECK FOR REGISTRATION IN THE SUGAR LEAGUE while they debated whether to accept the District's sponsorship. Upon passage of a motion to supply uniforms to them, they then went out and got their own sponsors, leaving the District hanging and taking with them only a small group of handpicked girls while ignoring numerous registrants without the courtesy of a simple try-out.

The Park District's Program was dual in purpose. It called for a 16" league for all registrants and the selection of two all star teams to play in the Sugar League after all the registrants had demonstrated their skills. As a result of the ridiculous machinations of the ladies in question MOST OF THE REGISTRANTS WERE LEFT HIGH AND DRY.

If the District deserves criticism, then it must be for its reliance on this group to organize its program and its failure to foresee the lengths to which they would go to satisfy Mrs. Cipolla's personal hang-ups. Truth is a stern taskmaster and a little of it might go a long way to clear the air on this subject.

BADO -

Dino sinks to all time low on his chauvinist TV show

A favorite television program of many people has obviously turned down that dirt road called "Male Chauvinism Avenue."

Reference is to the Dean Martin Show.

Why is this program allowed to openly display obvious contempt for the female body with remarks and leers suggestive of gutter morals?

Martin's singing style is extremely entertaining. However, the program has been sinking to depths that make Hefner's bunny-hutch appear almost biblical. This program has become the nation's biggest advocate of keeping women in the kitchen, or, the bedroom, depending on the woman's gullibility to accept either.

Dean is not the greatest actor in the world and the writers on the program are certainly not the cleverest as evidenced by their smut humor. The dialogue is insulting to anyone who believes in human pride, male or female.

The written script for Dino's show relegates sexual differences to disparity between feast and garbage with no doubt as to which sex signifies feast and which signifies garbage.

As long as shows of this caliber are allowed to continue, we will have a need for radical groups in opposition. Compromise is not always the best answer but it is half-way up, or, down, the ladder—depending upon which way the individual is going.

Tinley Park cares

Drug possession illegal

(The following is a continuation of a drug series offered by Tinley Park Cares.)

No matter how much we discuss the matter of drugs and their misuse, there is still one incontrovertible fact: It is illegal. People using drugs, excluding those obtained by prescription and used according to directions, may land in jail, and their lives are affected for years to come.

For example, possession of marijuana (depending upon the quantity) for personal use is a felony under federal law. A conviction could mean a sentence of not less than two years and not more than 10, for the first offense. When a person applies for a job, he is often asked to state whether he has ever been convicted of a felony. An affirmative reply, of course, would limit greatly his chances for being hired. Conviction on felony charges also mean loss of voting rights.

Many state laws are more severe in their penalties for possession of marijuana. For example, the state of Ohio specifies a maximum sentence of life in prison for selling marijuana to people who are minors.

Many states specify marijuana as a narcotic, but the federal laws do not, as of this writing.

On the other hand, possession of LSD, a far more dangerous drug you will recall from our discussion in this series, was made a misdemeanor, subject to a fine and or prison term, in changes made in federal laws. Prior to these changes, possession of LSD for personal use had not been a federal crime at all. Today about half of our states outlaw the possession of LSD, but the laws are changing constantly and tending to go in the direction of stiffer penalties.

The late J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said, "The distance from the dare to try 'pot' (marijuana), to 'mainlining' (injecting heroin) is very short."

Other law enforcement officers seem to feel that greater use of marijuana, especially among youngsters, will probably lead them to the use of far more dangerous drugs.

Mind-influencing drug laws continue to change in recent years. Very important changes in federal laws, making far stiffer penalties concerning dangerous drugs, were passed by Congress the last few years, in alterations in the Drug Abuse Control Amendments of 1965.

The main changes were: LSD was placed under the category and defined as "depressant or stimulant drugs" and possession for use was made a misdemeanor on the first offense. And, indicative of the trend, it is now a misdemeanor just to have barbiturates, amphetamines or other drugs of this type in your possession unless they have been prescribed by a licensed physician and were obtained through a valid prescription from a physician. Offenders can be fined as much as $1,000 and jailed for up to one year—or both—for the first or second offense on these charges if convicted. On third offense or beyond, the maximum fine is now $10,000 and up to three years in prison or both. There were, however, some special provisions put into the law for people whose convictions were their first on possession charges. These allow courts to suspend sentence and put the person so charged and convicted on probation for up to one year.

Under the new federal changes, the penalty for unlawful sale, manufacture, delivery or other disposal of, or possession with intent to sell a depressant or stimulant drug, or acts involving counterfeit drugs of this type, has now become subject to fines of up to $10,000 or prison terms of up to five years—or both.

The illegal sales, delivery or other disposal of such drugs by persons over age 18 to those under 21, now can bring fines up to $15,000 or prison terms for not more than 10 years, or both. For second and later offenses, the fine goes up to $20,000 and the jail term to 15 years.

Of course, there are many ins and outs to prosecution of the drug laws, and the courts across the land are being swamped more and more with drug cases, but all indications point to stiffer penalties and more stringent interpretations of existing laws for chronic offenders. And, this is what we must get across to our children and youngsters; the laws of the land will not let them destroy themselves with drug misuse if they are caught and eventually they will most likely be apprehended.

Gert gets a helicopter's eye view of target range

By Gertrude Gallagher
Part four of a series

SOUTHWEST — I had been out in the sun all day at Fire Point 3 with Battery C which was busily engaged in lobbing 200 pounds of TNT five miles down range from an 8-inch howitzer GUN.

Fire Point 3 could have been the Sahara as I bent double, my back to the hurricane force of sand, wind and grit.

Fire Check had been called while a patrol helicopter was within range seeking to land.

The helicopter had been waved in for a landing on the lunar-loose soil. No one had ever told me not to stand to the rear - even way to the rear - of a landing helicopter. Like a chipmunk poking its head up from easily six tons of grit blown up by the rotor blades I wouldn't have turned a sandy hair if Omar Sharif came charging out of the landed Huey with white robe on a camel.

A fellow photog had left his steel pot on the ground behind a protective mountain of hay. Without thinking he put it on his head and was showered with sand for his trouble.

Shortly I was to ride in the copter to view the range and the Forward Observer's post.

Getting into the craft, which had a crew of three, space for two facing out on each side of the ship and seats for four facing the front, I again wondered if I were acting in the best interests of me. Here I was again in a machine with no sides. Oh, they had sliding doors all right, but the crew felt cooler not shutting them.

So there I was with only a seat belt keeping me 1,400 feet up in the air and in the copter!

My Lord, he's making a right hand turn! Not just an ordinary "into traffic" right turn, but one that had me tipped over looking straight down into the funnel of a silo 1400 feet below. Only the seat belt - and maybe a little centrifugal force mixed with a mental prayer - kept my children from losing their mother. Would the steel pot be sufficient if I landed on my head?

Now he's spiralling. Around and down. Left turn over. Would the strap hold? Enjoy it, Gertrude. You can't get out now.

My Air Force friend Mrs. Jerry Bielke was quite at home in the air, and I must say the calm of everyone was contagious. Two gunners had come along and were sitting on the side seats, their feet hanging over the edge as if they were fishing from a bridge on the Kankakee River.

Just for the devil of it I stuck one foot over the edge too. Wonder what the farmer who owned the silo thought as he saw a white sneaker hanging from a copter!

Flying commercial flights or in any high flying plane is something quite different from flying in a copter. Surely God must see Earth as a copter pilot does. Serene. Quiet. Beautiful. Green and more green upon green. Just close enough to distinguish objects well. Just far enough to be removed from its turmoil.

The plowed fields followed lovely contour curves. A tractor bubbling up dust in its wake as it turned the earth. Against each succeeding green hill groups of seemingly unmoving black and white cows placed as if by plan to please an artist. Along the curved white strip of highway a hedge of lilac in bloom with a Red Cross truck moving past in slow motion. Amid all the green a splotch of black where a forest fire had left its scar.

In the distance we could see the projectiles from our GUN as they landed and gave off lazy puffs of silent smoke and dust. Everything had this unreal quality of slow motion.

Someone had given me a good deal of technical information about helicopters. Things like how the tips of the two blades go just under the speed of sound making the loud noise one hears; and the copter's use in support operations for such as Battery C.

Well, maybe that's important. Right then I was too filled up with the beauty of the world until one gets down on earth where it doesn't seem at all as lovely.

(NEXT WEEK: "BUMPED" by Lt. colonel our reporter goes to town and startles a church congregation in her army costume.)

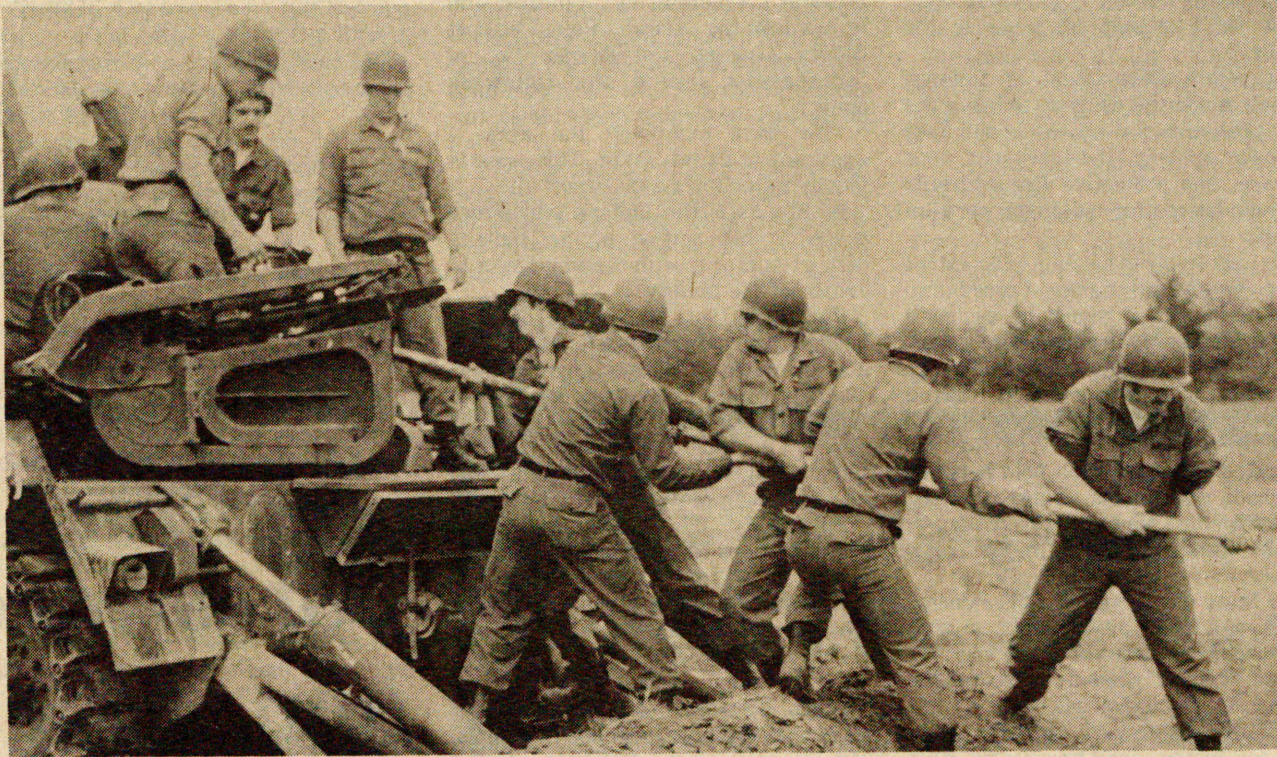

Man damages roof of auto

TINLEY PARK — Police charged a 23-year old Oak Forest man with criminal damage to property, and disorderly conduct after he allegedly damaged a car July 5.

Kirk Hemmrich, 21, of 17324 S. Harlem, told police he was driving near 17423 Odell when he saw three men that he knew. Hemmrich told police that he stopped to talk to the three but they told him to "Get out of here," and attempted to get into his car, but the doors were locked.

Hemmrich said that one of the youths then sat on his hood, while a second one, later identified as Richard Farrington, of 5049 W. 159th st., climbed to the top of the car and began jumping on the roof, also shattering the windshield. The three then ran into a nearby house.

When Detective A. J. Merenowicz and Sgt. Robert Guest arrived on the scene Farrington attempted to flee from the house but was apprehended.

Our reporter discovered that after a full-day at Fire Point 3, where at one point she watched this gun crew manually load a projectile after the rammer broke, the world really is beautiful when you're 1,400 feet straight up looking down at the earth-bound artillery.

Scariano seeks Moore debates

SOUTHWEST — State Representative Anthony Scariano (D., Park Forest) has challenged his opponent in November's Ninth District State Senate race to a series of debates on campaign issues.

Scariano made the challenge after his opponent, Don A. Moore, claimed to have voted against a certain amendment to the ethics bill, when the official legislative record showed that Moore voted 'present' and effectively abstained.

Scariano called for the debates saying that "only in this way can my opponent be pinned down to the truth, and only in this way can we underscore the duplicity of his arguments and answers to the serious issues of the campaign."

Scariano said that he plans to contact the various chapters of the League of Women Voters in the 9th Senatorial District and ask them to invite both candidates to meetings to debate the issues from a non-partisan platform and to answer questions submitted by the audience.

Scariano went on to say that debates between candidates are a time-honored political tradition because in a debate the public gets to see the true candidate without the coaching of the Standard Oil Company's publicity department. "The debates between Lincoln and Douglas are famous, and the debates between Kennedy and Nixon are also famous," Scariano said, "but candidates in vast numbers of other elections have debated in the past, and I propose to continue that tradition. If my opponent is sincere in his convictions, and if he has nothing to hide, he should gladly accept my challenge."

Any groups interested in arranging a debate should call Scariano's office at 756-7110.

Overdose deaths up

COOK COUNTY — Drug overdose deaths in Cook County increased substantially during May over the same month last year, it was announced last week by Coroner Andrew J. Toman.

Dr. Toman said that drug deaths last month totaled 29, compared to 18 deaths for May, 1971. For the first four months of 1972, drug overdose deaths total 116, compared to 99 for the same period in 1971.

Dist. 230 votes to share grid insurance increase

PALOS HILLS — Protection against injuries in football will cost Sandburg and Stagg gridders $2.50 more next season.

The district 230 school board Monday night voted a student insurance package with Puritan Life Insurance Company in which the district will pay half the cost of insurance for the football player, when the player obtains insurance through the school.

The insurance would be $31 per player non-deductible with an additional $6 mandatory fee for the team members providing for them going to and from games, or when not on the field.

Last year the insurance for football was $20 per player non-deductible with the same $6 mandatory fee. Of that the board paid half, or $10 of the non-deductible and the individual player the $10 plus all of the $6.

An earlier motion that the board split the cost of the $31.00 be split evenly $15.50 between district and player with the player paying all of the additional $6 was defeated by a 4-3 vote.

Voting against the proposal to share the $31 dollars but have the players pay the entire $6 were board members John Daliege, Richard Dohner, Partick Henry, and George Strobel. Voting for the motion were: Harwood Stellwagen, Fred Mulhausen, and Mrs. Doreen Crewe.

Other students participating in sports programs would pay $6 for the added protection plus $21 for injuries sustained during competition. Members of the student body not engaged in athletics would also pay the $27 dollar package.

The board in discussing the insurance agreed to encourage students to obtain outside accident insurance. The district requires proof that the student has outside insurance.

In other money matters the board met in executive session turned down a request by three female bus drivers that their salary for driving buses for summer school be $18 a day, the same as during the regular school years.

Earlier this year the board in a negotiating session with the five persons representing the drivers had agreed to a salary of $12 per day for the summer bus drivers.

District 230 is one of the few school districts in the state that has its own buses and drivers.

The district has a total of eight summer drivers. The three women in protesting the summer pay said they traveled just as many miles in the summer as they did in the school year despite having only two runs in the summer and four during the school year.

The three also told the board that they were not aware that their negotiating team had agreed to the $12 summer rate until they received a notice of the agreement about a month ago.

Asked by Strobel, "Why didn't you object to the pay when you first saw the agreement?" One of the women said, "We didn't want to be a nuisance."

One of the three women was a member of the negotiating team which determined the summer pay, but was ill at the time the agreement was reached.

The women claimed they worked just as hard and had the same responsibilities in the summer as they do during the regular school year. They admitted they bid for the summer jobs despite knowing the salary was $12 a day, but said they needed the money. The board decided on a request by Strobel to make a final decision on the pay in executive session, and voted to keep the $12 rate.

In other action Superintendent William Fisher reported on the district budget calling the recently completed fiscal year "The best tax distribution year in the 17 years I have been with the district."

The board voted to approve a request by the Sandburg Booster Club to sponsor a roller derby match sometime during the next school year at Sandburg.

The district will accept bids on the water system for the connection of Sandburg to the Orland Park Water System, at 2 p.m. July 24. The board hired ten teachers for coming school year, seven at Sandburg and three at Stagg.

Tekton wants meeting

WESTHAVEN — Tekton Corporation has requested a special meeting Wed. July 12, at the Westhaven village hall for the purpose of discussing the revocation of 46 stop orders placed on buildings under construction in the village. Building Inspector Dennis Ward issued the stop orders Monday July 10th, due to allegedly expired building permits.

Several weeks before the April, 1971, village election, President Curtis Whitaker and the previous board of trustees issued 244 building permits to Tekton, which according to village ordinance requires that a building be started within six months of the issuance of the permit.

According to Tekton they had only the verbal assurance of Whitaker that the Village would protect them against any monetary loss.

One hundred and fifty of the building permits that were issued prior to April of 1971 are still outstanding. Tekton is requested that the expiration date on the permits be extended to the end of 1972.

Hall is burglarized

WESTHAVEN — The Westhaven Village Hall was the scene of a burglary July 5th or early Thursday morning July 6th. The exact time of the break-in was not determined, the frame on the front door was ripped off. A large window air conditioner was the only item stolen.

Several months ago the hall was burglarized, among the items taken at that time were an electric typewriter, a copy machine, village ledger book number three and $500.00 in cash. At that time there was no visible signs of entry.

Bong Field, Wis.

Airport that never was

Editor James Vesely and Staff Writer Doug Ray of the Arlington Heights Herald have explored the needs and the direction of Chicago's airport dilemma. In the second of a four-part series they tell about a barren and dusty airfield just northwest of Chicago, a place which was designed to join the jet age but never felt the weight of a single plane.

Bong Air Force Base is part of the story of a search for another airport for Chicago. It is a sideroad, a temporary detour in the rush for air facilities for the Chicago metropolis.

In telling the story of Bong field something also is told about the tax dollars spent, the dreams formed and dissipated in a three-state effort to be part of Chicago's airport dilemma.

'People don't want noise and pollution'

CROWN POINT, IND. — William Fifield is torn between loyalties to his neighbors and the State of Indiana. He's a resident of Crown Point, Ind., and a state airport authority commissioner charged with the duty to determine if a motor jetport should be constructed on Hoosier soil near his home.

Since last July, Fifield and two other state-appointed airport commissioners have been meeting monthly to determine the need for the facility. "The only thing I can tell you is that we're actively studying it," he said in a telephone interview. "We are studying the studies."

And there have been numerous airport feasibility studies during the past few years in northwestern Indiana for the men to digest. The latest one in 1971 cites that Chicago's third major airport should be built near Fifield's Crown Point home.

After the 1971 study by James and Berger of Indianapolis, there was a growing impetus to begin plans for the airport near Crown Point. The Indiana legislature established the airport authority with bonding power to raise funds for the project.

But something happened. The authority continues to meet regularly but without direction.

So you want to sew

As summer days come and go, new projects are always welcome. For the young lady of the house, sewing can be worthwhile as well as fun. Dolls are sometimes the first ones clothed in the products of these labors. "How to Make Doll Clothes," by Emily R. Dow, is a book for daughters, mothers and grandmothers. In its 95 pages the author manages to include the details of making patterns for all sorts of outfits. Underwear, dresses, bonnets, coats and snowsuits are among those items included. The last chapter gives all the necessary steps for outfitting the bride doll. The author also includes a glossary of sewing terms that every budding seamstress should know.

"Of Course You Can Sew!", Barbara Corrigan, is a very basic book for the beginning seamstress. Basic stitches, fabrics and equipment are discussed first. Then the author leads into items that can be made from straight pieces of material — belts, tote bags, shifts and robes. In the final chapters the pattern is used and the reader is well on her way to producing complete skirt and blouse outfits.

What was to be a major United States Air Force Base two decades ago, is now a seldom-used expanse of land operated by the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources.

A runway to support the most effective United States jets is today overrun with tall weeds. Foundations of government buildings are uprooted, and trees are growing through the decayed cement. The silver-grey military fuel tanks stand rusted and empty.

The former Richard I. Bong Air Force Base just southwest of Kenosha was abandoned five years after construction began, when military technology outraced government machinery.

Its only chance for salvation may be that, in fact, jet aircraft will finally touch down on the now barren property — if it becomes the location of Chicago's third major commercial airport.

In 1954, the federal government acquired more than 5,500 acres of land for the Air Force as the Strategic Air Command base to guard the midwest from air attack. In 1959, the base was abandoned.

"The Defence Department felt there was no more reason to retain the SAC aircraft or its bases," said Air Force Maj. Thomas Hilquist, operations officer for the 64th Air Force Tactical Unit at O'Hare, who added the military's lone use today of the former-base is to drop men and cargo during Air Force Reserve practice exercises.

"Airplanes weren't required at Bong any more," he said, "because of the missile."

But before Department of Defense officials made the decision to leave the base, preliminary work had begun on a 12,000-foot runway. The fuel tanks were in place, and protective fire hydrants and foundations for buildings were installed.

It is impossible to calculate the extent of wasted federal money poured into Bong Field. But it must be assumed that millions of dollars were spent before the project was abandoned.

Several groups now are taking another look at Bong as the possible site for a Chicago-Milwaukee regional airport. Meetings have been held between Wisconsin and Illinois airport officials. And politicians have expressed support for the Bong site as a major cargo center.

The State of Wisconsin is considering the site as a future airport and a study is under way to determine whether an airport will be needed to serve the Chicago-Milwaukee areas.

"We are looking very carefully at the need for further facilities," said Kurt Bauer, executive director of the Southeast Wisconsin Plan Commission (SEWERPAC) in Waukesha. The fate of the Bong site will be determined by the end of the year," he said.

SEWERPAC has appointed a consultant to study the airport needs of the southern Wisconsin region to supplement Gen. Mitchell Field in Milwaukee which is the lone passenger port in that part of the state. "The report will be finished this year or at the latest the beginning of next," Bauer said.

Until that time, the State of Wisconsin is taking no chances on losing the prospective site.

A private investment group wanted to use some of the land as an industrial and residential development along with 400 acres of the site for an airport development.

And although several purchase contracts were signed, the State Legislature of Wisconsin in 1966 enacted a bill that canceled all title to the lands by the private group, and transferred the ownership to the Wisconsin Conservation Commission.

The feasibility study will determine whether the land will change hands again. According to Wisconsin officials' expectations, the report will determine the following:

"A particularly pressing development decision which will affect both land use and airport facility development within the region must be made in the near future. This decision concerns the ultimate use of the abandoned Richard I. Bong Air Force Base."

While the State of Wisconsin is holding in limbo property available for the third major airport for the Chicago area, Indiana also has established a suitable location southeast of Chicago for the facility.

Crown Point, a sleepy Hoosier community just south of Gary-Hammond, will be the location of jetport if it is to be in Indiana.

In 1971, all indications were that it was very likely to be there. The impetus, however, is gone.

A study commissioned last year by the Indiana Aeronautics Commission reinforced the Crown Point airport concept. James and Berger Co. of Indianapolis issued the following opinion:

"We have examined the area... southeast of Crown Point. This area is ideally suited for major airport site..."

In July 1971, the Indiana legislature passed a bill setting up an Indiana Airport Authority with bonding power to construct the facility.

But since that time, state officials have not exerted pressure for the jetport at Crown Point. "The situation has been stagnant since July," according to Lance Dodson of the Lake-Porter County Regional Transportation and Planning Agency in Highland, Ind. "The idea has been played down," he said.

Apparently the state's immediate considerations do not include a major airport at Crown Point because a transportation study presently under way does not include such a plan.

The Indiana report showing Crown Point the most suitable location for a Chicago Regional Airport compared several alternative locations in Illinois. The Illinois sites, (Peotone, Green Garden, Frankfort and Lockport; all just west of Crown Point) were declared less desirable.

On the other hand, top Illinois aviation officials say they have made no exact location choices for the airport, if it is to be in Illinois.

J.E. Wenzel, former director of Illinois aeronautics, said there were three prime choices for the site of the third airport being considered before he resigned in Feb. 1971.

— Peotone; a small Will County community on Rte. 57.

— Calumet; in a marshy area south of the Calumet Harbor.

— South and west of O'Hare, at the end of the proposed Crosstown Expressway. "That site was depending on rapid transit exclusively," Wenzel said.

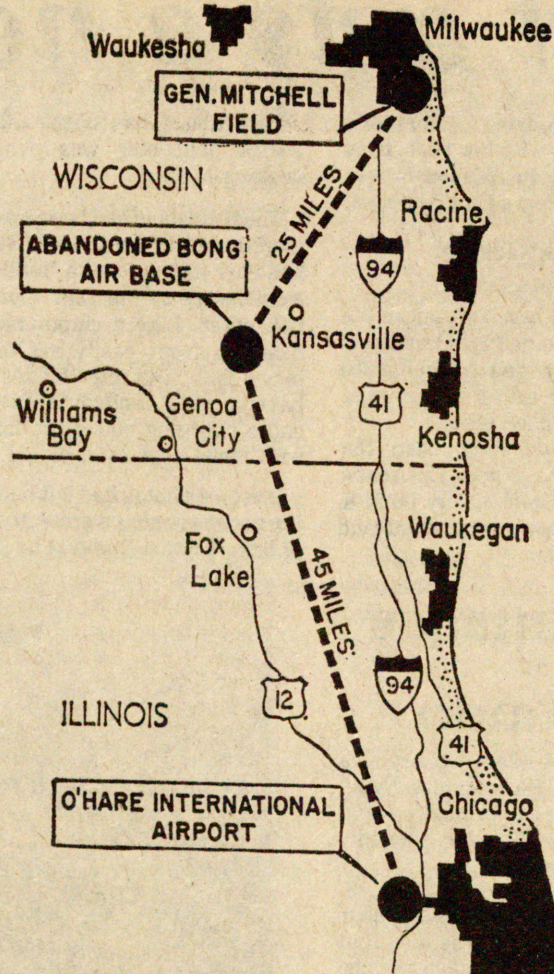

While the debate continues on whether there will be a third airport for the Chicago area, a jetport is near reality in downstate Illinois.

The St. Louis Metropolitan Airport Authority has applied for federal funding to help finance a $350 million facility at Waterloo, just south of East St. Louis.

Over the objections of the Missouri legislature and St. Louis County, Illinois nearly has secured the right to build an airport, primarily for St. Louis, on the east side of the Mississippi.

If Illinois can snatch an airport from the grasp of the State of Missouri, then Wisconsin and Indiana, even with their million dollars feasibility studies, are certainly in for a real battle over the next Chicago jetport.

(Next: Chicago's master plan for O'Hare)

The site of the abandoned Richard I. Bong Air Force Base in Wisconsin is 45 miles from O'Hare and about 25 miles from Gen. Mitchell Field in Milwaukee.

Forest preserve has long wait for planes

KENOSHA, WIS. — The winding road which leads to Bong Memorial Recreation Area bears no directional marker to the massive forest preserve that was once planned as a military airfield.

Wisconsin Rte. 43 through the rural countryside west of Kenosha passes rolling farmland and wooded hills until it leads to a large flat field — the former Richard I. Bong Air Force Base.

Today, the nearest sound to jet aircraft is the roar of a tractor working the soil just over an adjacent hill.

Seven square miles of barren property is a reminder of what happened at Bong. A testimony to a military shift in priorities which left Bong in the dust of the cold war.

Bong was abandoned just five years after runways were begun, oil tankers erected and building foundations laid. The runways no longer are present. Tall grass has hidden their existence. The circular tankers, more difficult to erase, are rusted and marked by juvenile etchings.

Bong apparently is a favorite drinking grounds for residents of Kenosha and Racine counties. Broken bottles are everywhere.

Erosion has cut through the sloping landscape. Chains block the dirt roads from automobile travel.

When the federal government turned the site over to the State of Wisconsin, several state and local groups obtained portions of the land.

Local high school and elementary districts obtained wooded parcels as school forests. Kenosha County secured 360 acres for a county park and golf course. The rest went to the Wisconsin Conservation Commission as a wildlife refuge.

But other than the creatures of nature, few Wisconsinites seem to take advantage of Bong's presence. Only a handful of fishermen cast into a shallow lake. A golf course under the auspices of the county, is desolate.

A railroad spur moves east into the former airfield, rendered as useless as the jet aircraft which were to have landed there.

Youths start fire

TINLEY PARK — Police investigating a fire that destroyed a barn at 7800 W. 159th st. July 1, have determined that the fire was started by two youths playing in the barn. The barn which was abandoned was gutted by the fire.

According to police the youths were attempting to smoke out a nest of birds they found in the barn, and accidentally set the barn on fire.

LIFE EVERLASTING!

This is the greatest good news the nonChristian world has ever had. The Christian God of unselfish love has guaranteed everlasting life, not alone to Christians but to every one else living or dead. (John 5:28-29; 1 Tim. 2:3-6; 4:40; 1 John 2:2; Mat. 25:31-40; Rom. 2:10)

In God's new world to come, he is giving the nonChristians a second chance to take advantage of his generous offer. All of us who have accepted Jesus Christ in this world will enjoy special privileges and the Israelites in deed will benefit from their unique relationship with God. (1 Chron 16:16-18; Acts 3:21)

Derwinski Poll

Area approves of trip to China

SOUTHWEST — A recent poll by Congressmen Edward Derwinski (R-4th) shows Tinley Park, Orland Park and Oak Forest to be closely related in their overall opinion in the district.

The Derwinski poll covered eight major issues.

District wide 84 percent of the respondents indicated they believed the president's trip to China was worthwhile.

In Tinley Park 77 percent of the respondents felt the trip was worthwhile. The response in Oak Forest showed 76 percent of the persons answering the questionnaire felt the trip was worthwhile, as did 80 percent of those responding from Orland Park.

Citizens living in the district agree that the president's economic controls program is ineffective. Only 30 percent of those answering the questionnaire in the district felt the controls program was working.

In Tinley Park 25 percent of those answering the questionnaire felt the program was working as did 31 percent of the respondents in Orland. The percentage was closer in Oak Forest, where 46 percent of those responding felt the program was working.

Most of the responding residents in the fourth district feel that the country's military is adequate as indicated by 61 percent of those responding in the district.

In Tinley Park 66 percent of the respondents felt the nation's military strength was adequate, as did 62 percent of the persons answering the poll in Orland Park and Oak Forest.

Revenue sharing of federal funds by direct payment to states and local governments without federal controls was looked on with disfavor by 58 percent of the district. In Tinley 70 percent of those responding were against sharing the federal funds, while the percentage of disapproval was 56 percent in Oak Forest and 60 percent in Orland Park.

The controversial issue of busing to achieve racial quotas was turned down by 95 percent of the persons responding in the district.

In Tinley 98 percent indicated they were against busing for racial balance, and 94 percent were against busing in Oak Forest and Orland Park.

Despite much effort to control pollution the poll indicates residents of the district do not feel sufficient national effort is being used to control pollution. District wide 77 percent of the voters felt that not enough effort was being expended. In Orland Park and Oak Forest 71 percent of the responding voters felt more effort was needed while 81 percent of the respondents in Tinley felt there was a lack of effort on the national level.

Stiff mandatory sentences for persons convicted of using firearms in committing a crime received approval from 95 percent of the district responses. In Tinley and Orland 92 percent favored stiff sentences, and 95 percent of those responding in Oak Forest wanted such sentences.

Continuing the manned space program was favored in the district by 63 percent of the persons responding. In Tinley 58 percent of the respondents favored the space program, in Orland by 65 percent and 67 percent in Oak Forest.

Promote two police

TINLEY PARK — Two Tinley Park police Sergeants were promoted to Lieutenant July 1. Promoted were Sgt. Peter M. Seeley, a 17-year veteran of the force, and Sgt. Dean D. Utter, a 10-year veteran of the force.

EPA order closes 2 tree burning sites

SOUTHWEST — All tree burning in the forest preserves two tree burning sites stopped July 1, by order of the Illinois Environmental Pollution agency.

Closing of the two sites one on the north side and one south which served numerous communities throughout Cook County will mean higher costs for disposal of tree by many communities and will cause problems finding landfill sites that will accept trees.

One site was located just east of Wheeling, the south side site was located on route 83 between Lemong and La Grange Road.

The south side burning site served 34 communities as well as the forest preserve, in burning of diseased Dutch Elm trees.

Earlier in the year the EPA closed the two sites when they meet new state pollution standards. At that time the forest preserve district had to make application with the EPA for special permits to continue burning. The permits were granted but restrictions, including the hours that trees could be burned were placed on the sites.

Originally the forest preserve district had hoped to equip the sites with machinery to burn the trees in covered pits meeting the new pollution requirements.

The district received permits to continue burning but installed an air destructor machine at the north site, but the operation of the machine proved economically unfeasible.

Five destructor machines were planned to be purchased for the south side site at a total cost of $200,000 to $250,000. The south site however is now expected to purchase only one machine which will just allow it to handle the diseased trees from the forest preserve areas.

Even if the forest preserve district changed its mind and decided to purchase five machines the nearby communities wouldn't use the facilities according to a forest preserve spokesman, because they could dispose of trees cheaper at a sanitary landfill.

James Tyndall, assistant general superintendent of the forest preserve district said that landfills charge approximately $1.35 per cubic foot to dispose of trees. The district would have to charge more than $1.75 to destroy the trees.

For a large truck which would hold 50-cubic yards of trees the charge would average about $57.50 at a landfill and $87.50 to break even at the burning site.

Both prices are high compared to the maximum charge of $10 for even the largest truck which was used at the burning sites in the past.

With the end of burning communities can no longer store their dead trees at the forest preserve sites until they are burned, but must find other places to store them.

Landfills are not anxious to take trees, because they do not usually have the equipment needed to crush them, and often have to bury the trees whole which takes up additional room. The method of stacking trees in a landfill leaves spaces between the trees resulting in a fine breeding place for rodents.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER BY JIM HIRSCH

Some people wonder what kind of letter can be written to a bereaved family. Circumstances alter instances of course, but when an occasion requires a letter, maybe this general idea can guide you.

"No matter how well meant or how well written, words simply don't come easy for us to express our feeling at a time like this. You of course know our feeling. You know we will fondly remember a good person, a person many people were proud and fortunate to have as a friend.

A Higher Power made a decision. No one knows the reason. We simply have to accept it. You, your family, your friends — all of us — can be grateful for a gift of memories we fondly share with you. This precious, priceless gift is mostly yours, but not entirely. We value it too and always will

Bizettes her favorite

OAK FOREST — Cooking and baking comes naturally to "Sis" Gach.

When she was a young girl, she helped her aunt at her restaurant and bakery which was located on the corner of 162nd St. and Cicero Ave. She met her future husband, Kasper, when he was employed as a baker. Mr. and Mrs. Gach later operated a restaurant and tavern at the same location, which is now Stanley's.

"Sis" also enjoys making smoked pillows. She began making pillows about ten years ago and has completed records showing a total of 961 pillows to date. She uses old bed sheets for the under-cases and shredded foam for the filling. The outer covers take about four hours and looks extremely difficult to the eye of a novice.

There are four generations living at the 4810 W. 162nd Street address. "Sis's" mother, Catherine Earl, 84, lives with her daughter and son-in-law. The Gaches' daughter, Betty Carston, her husband, Don, and four children, Cathy, Don, Michael and John, live on the second floor.

Another daughter, Joanne Slusarski, and her husband, Don, live in Mokena. The Slusarski's have seven children: Donald, Donna, Douglas, David, Dennis, Dale and Diane.

"Sis" has made the following recipe for several luncheons and says the everyone seems to enjoy it. It can be made the night before and kept in the refrigerator. She also freezes halves of green peppers, after cleaning, thereby enabling her to buy when produce is cheaper.

The Gachs are members of St. Damien's Catholic Church, Oak Forest.

NOW seeking equal partnership

A civil rights organization pledged to work actively to bring women into full participation in the mainstream of American society "NOW," exercising all the privileges and responsibilities thereof in truly equal partnership with men.

NOW, according to an organizational report, is not a women's organization, but a group of men and women dedicated to action which will change the conditions which prevent women from developing to their full human potential.

The organization claims that women's problems are linked to many broader questions of social justice. They are convinced that human rights for all are indivisible and lend support to the cause of equal rights for all those who suffer discrimination and deprivation.

NOW is an action organization committed to working for basic changes in the life style of America and breaking through "the silken curtain of prejudice that has given both men and women such a limited view of their capacities to contribute to social progress."

NOW has pledged to work for the following:

Passage of the Equal Rights Amendment: Pending in Congress are legislative proposals which would amend the United States Constitution to provide that "equality of Rights under the law shall not be denied or a bridge by the United States or by any State on account of sex." NOW supports this amendment, without change, and has called upon its members to work actively for its approval by Congress for submission to the states for ratification.

Abolition of Laws Penalizing Abortion: NOW endorsed the principle that it is a basic right of every woman to control her reproductive life, and therefore NOW supports the furthering of the sexual revolution of our century by pressing for widespread sex education, provision of birth control information and contraceptives, and the repeal of all laws penalizing abortion.

Revision of State Protective Laws For Women: NOW believes that state labor standards which are applicable only to women are inconsistent with the concept of equality. NOW has pledged to work for the inclusion of men under the protections currently extended by some of these laws. NOW also is pledged to repeal those laws which raise barriers to employment based on sex, in the guise of offering protection to women workers. NOW also supports the amendment of any State FEP act to include a prohibition against discrimination in employment based on sex.

Enforcement Of The Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title 7: NOW applauds the recent decisions of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission which: (1) call for the elimination of help wanted advertising columns segregated by sex; (2) declare that sex is not a bona fide occupational qualification for the position of flight attendant on the airlines (and thereby challenges the practice of terminating female flight attendants upon marriage or upon reaching a prescribed age); (3) state that optional or compulsory retirement ages which are different for each sex violate Title 7. NOW urges the Commission to continue to enforce Title 7 with full equity and pledges its efforts and the efforts of its members to strengthen the position of the Commission and to resist any Congressional efforts to undermine its decision by restrictive legislation.

Campaign to Change the Mass Media's Portrayal of Women: NOW chapters and members are pledged to work in their communities to increase the number of models of healthy, happy women with expertise and contributions to make in areas which may include, but are not limited to homemaking and child-rearing. The campaign is to be directed at all the mass media — radio, T.V., commercial advertising, newspapers, textbooks. Members are encouraged to organize speakers' bureaus of women who can serve as symbols of the variety of roles women can play in the society.

Participation of Women On An Equal Basis With Men In Church Life And Practice: NOW is committed to opposition to discrimination based on sex religious institutions and to religious teachings and laws which cause or reinforce such discrimination. NOW supports efforts to open the priesthood, ministry, rabbinate and other religious hierarchies to all persons, regardless of sex.

Greater Participation of Women In Programs Against Poverty: NOW works to eliminate practices which presently discriminate against women in training under the poverty programs. More women should be represented on policy-making boards of community action programs.

Revision of Divorce And Alimony Arrangements: NOW opposes present laws which thrive on hypocrisy and are predicated on the guilt on one party. NOW supports revisions in these laws which would permit unsuccessful marriages to be terminated without hypocrisy and new marriages to be contracted without undue financial hardship to either man or woman.

Revision of Social Security Laws: NOW supports changes in the present legislation to assure equitable coverage for married and widowed women who have worked, and to eliminate discrimination based on sex or marital status in conferring of benefits.

Provision of Maternity Rights: NOW supports a women's right to return to her job within a reasonable time after childbirth, determined by the woman herself, without loss of her disability credits or seniority.

Expansion of Child Care Services: NOW supports the development of child care facilities available on an all-day, all-year basis, adequate to the needs of children from the pre-school years to early adolescence. NOW believes that child care centers should be community resources, like parks and libraries, to be used or not at the discretion of individual citizens. NOW opposes efforts to force welfare mothers to place children in child care centers and work.

Revision of Tax Laws: NOW supports tax revision to eliminate elements of sex discrimination and to permit deductions of home and child care expenses in income taxes of working parents.

Full Participation of Women In Political Activities: NOW supports the elimination of separate women's divisions within the political parties and urges women to become fully involved at all levels in political decision-making. NOW urges women to cross party lines to support candidates who support NOW's goals. NOW encourages women to refrain from doing the traditional menial headquarters work in campaigns and the housekeeping jobs in political parties and to demand meaningful roles. NOW is pledged to work for equitable representation of women on all policy-making bodies which have a bearing on the over-all well-being of people.

Revision of The Education System: NOW is pledged to vigorous action to revise the systematic and deliberate mis-education with respect to sex roles in the American educational system. NOW will work to eliminate restrictive quotas based on sex, written or unwritten, in colleges, universities, graduate and professional schools. NOW supports revisions in the educational system which would make it possible for more women to combine their education with their child-rearing and family duties.

Lehmann winner

MOKENA — Dave Merrick, Mokena, who was sidelined by illness early in the track season at the University of Pennsylvania, is rounding into shape it was evident by his triumph in the fourth annual Fred Lehmann 10-mile-run held in conjunction with the Mokena Fourth of July Festival.

The former high school star runner finished first in the 10 mile run that begins in Pilcher Park, Joliet, and winds up in the Community Park Mokena. His time was 50 minutes, 14 and four tenths seconds, which is the fastest time recorded for the event. Last year — Merrick was running elsewhere — Jim Skinner, of Eastern Illinois, won the 10-mile in what was then the best time — 53 minutes, 17 seconds.

This year that time was beaten by the third place finisher, Bill Been, now in Eastern Illinois University, who covered the distance in 53:11. Finishing second was Ron Lancaster, also of Eastern Illinois, whose time was 52:32.

Trophies were given to the first three finishers by Mrs. Marcella Lehmann, widow of Fred Lehmann, who was an active figure in the Mokena Lions Club. The Lions Club, which sponsors the Fourth of July Festival named the event in his honor. This is the third time that Merrick has won the trophy.

The other finishers and their times, are: John Been, just graduated from Lincoln-Way, 54:01; Mike Novak, Western Illinois, 54:27; Fred Beck, ISU, 54:43; Rich Loucks, ISU, 54:44; Rick Bowman, EIU, 55:10; Chuck Lowry, WIU, 56:52; Jim Robertson, North Park College, 58:38; Steve Dennen, Bowling Green, O., 62:05; Marian Demus, Lincoln-Way, 68:32.

All of these receive smaller trophies. Joe Rodriguez, track coach at Lincoln-Way High School, who is in charge of the 10-mile-run, said the better time is accounted for by the fact that the contestants, with the exception of two, are all in college.

ORLAND PARK — Those ladies from Orland Park are looking for some more competition to play with in twelve-inch softball. The Ding-Bats, the ladies softball team from Orland played Frankfort Monday night but say their schedule is very small with only three other teams to play this year compared to seven last year.

Mary Avolio, chairman for the team said they are willing to play any other ladies softball team that plays 12 inch softball. Teams interested should contact her at 349-0742.

WESTHAVEN — The boys registered in the Westhaven Homeowners baseball program have received their shirts and hats, the white shirts with red letters and red hats with a white W make a striking appearance on the ball field.

The Cubs team ages six to eight years of age, are divided into A and B teams.

The A and B teams play each other every Tuesday and Thursday from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., at the temporary athletic field at 159th just west of Haven Avenue. On Saturday the boys play T ball from 10 a.m., until noon.

The game is played like baseball except a pitcher and catcher are not used. An orange rubber road divider is used to support the ball. Each boy gets a chance to bat in each inning as there are not three outs as in baseball.

ORLAND PARK — The Glenn Beckert Baseball camp is re-opening in Orland Park for a two week session only. The day camp will open July 10 and run only to July 21. The camp, run by Sandburg baseball coach Ron Mellen and two varsity baseball players plus the major league programs is opening because of the 21 registrations. If anyone is still interested in joining they must go to the camp at 151st and 94th avenue in Orland. Over 20 hours of professional instruction is given and for late signee's the cost can be pro-rated. All fundamentals of the game are taught.

SUSAN FEULNER

Miss Feulner

Selects perfect time

TINLEY PARK — Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Feulner, Chicago, former residents of Tinley Park, announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan, to Dennis Cook. Dennis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Cook, Tinley Park.

Susan, a 1970 graduate of Tinley Park High School, is currently attending Loyola University.

Dennis, a 1969 graduate of Bremen High School, is employed as an apprentice carpenter.

No date has been set for the wedding.

SAGITTA SAYS, If your engagement extends through Cancer, June 22 to July 23, know that the Moon rules this period. Like the ebbs and flows of the Moon's influence, your engagement is apt to have great highs and lows; you may find yourselves laughing with gleeful expectation at your coming wedding. Or sobbing inwardly over this change of status.

Cancer is the fourth natural House of the Zodiac. This is the place for feelings of home and family. Certainly it is a perfect period to make plans for the domestic life and future family situation. Sow the seeds now for your unity of two bodies and souls, for Cancer creates the appropriate atmosphere for such deeply personal moves.

It has been said that accidents occur in three's. I am beginning to believe this superstition is true. Two weeks ago, the Bruske Family of Maple Court was involved in the first two car accidents to occur in Prestwick. Just four days later, a Mrs. Rita Homer, no relation to Russ Homer, of Arbury Hills and a Frank Notoriano of Chicago Heights were involved in the second two car collision. Both cars collided head on in front of the Galassi Home on Prestwick Drive. Notoriano was driving a small van truck for a Beecher florist. Mrs. Homer's purpose in Prestwick is not known. All participants in the accident were taken to Silver Cross Hospital in Joliet by ambulance for treatment of minor injuries. No tickets were issued by investigating Will County Sheriff's Police.

The LUAU scheduled for next Saturday, July 15, is already over sold. Jim advises us that there is a substantial waiting list for this always popular event. He notes that over 200 persons are presently scheduled to attend. He is saying a prayer that the rain god strikes Wisconsin. Anything less will cause a few problems.

Pat Hendricks of Golf Club Lane is busy recovering from major surgery in Minnesota. Don advises us that all is well and that Pat is expected to return home in a few weeks. If any of her neighbors would care to write, her address is as follows:

Mrs. Pat Hendricks
St. Mary's Hospital
Room 3-162
1216 South West Second St
Rochester, Minnesota

We all hope she returns home well and ready to take all the club events.

The leading contenders for the McIntosh Golf Trophy are Bob Jehu of Harvey with a 68, Emery Pavol of Tinley Park with a 68, Bill Flynn of Prestwick with a 69, Robert Sayles of Flossmoor with a 69 and Howard Pampel of Olympia Fields with a 69. The first round of the two round tournament was played last Sunday and the final round will be played next Sunday. The winner of the trophy last year was Jim Kogut of Prestwick Drive.

(ED: Although we would love to claim credit for a fine piece of writing, we must give thanks to Paul Meyer for the following report on our July 4th event.)

There was plenty of red, white and blue exhibited at the Prestwick Homeowner's picnic Tuesday the 4th of July; cold red noses, cold blue finger nails and cold white chattering teeth. Although one of the local TV weather forecasters had predicted no snow, we were beginning to think that was just another wrong forecast.

The festivities were kicked off by some high stepping majorettes, a band, plus floats, decorated cars, antique and not so antique fire equipment of the Frankfort Fire Protection District, and bicycles. The crowd followed the parade, rivaling the famous Rose Parade, down to the judges stand and picnic grove. The Snoopy Float made by the Prestwick Girl Scouts, Troop 319, sponsored by Mrs. Lou Perrson, was awarded first prize. The band organized by the Jim Koguts won second prize and the Liberty Bell float by the Don Olivieri children was awarded third prize.

In order to stay warm there were two alternatives, either wrap in a blanket indian style or join in the variety of games that the Bill Taubers had set up.

Without a doubt, the egg toss was the most popular with the cheering crowd, frequently getting too close and wearing a spattering of yellow. The other activity that was participated in 100 per cent was the lightening of the load of food on the long groaning board, supervised by Judy Strilich. In fact, quietness descended on the picnic grounds at that time.

We finally gave in to the elements and moved the dancing from under the stars to the warmth of the club house. The music was excellent to dance or listen to, and as the evening came to an end, we all thanked Arlene Kogut for doing such a super organizational job.

Village wants south route

FRANKFORT — The question of locating the east-west South Suburban highway is heating up. Frankfort is already on record with the State Department of Transportation as favoring a route further south than one of those recommended.

Based on a report of the situation as made by Burton Breidert, administrative assistant for the village, Mayor Glenn Warning wrote the state that Frankfort favors the route labeled L2-N2, which would be half a mile south of Steger Road, instead of L2-M2. In his letter the mayor points out that L2-M2 parallels the Frankfort Airport as it crosses Center Road. The airport is being extended in an easterly direction with a 4,260 runway to the northeast and future plans call for extending this runway to the southwest.

This L2-M2 route would interfere with the expansion of the airport and the air lanes and create a hazard by elevating Center road to cross the freeway at the west end of the present airstrip. Warning added that "the route would confine the industrial growth to the south by a physical barrier and bar access to adjacent land already in development, and sewer extension south of the route would be undesirable and costly." There is to be a public hearing of the proposed east-west routes conducted by the Department of Transportation at Lincoln-Way High School at 7:30 p.m. July 25.

Mayor Warning was not present at the meeting Monday and Trustee Howard Osmun presided.

Breidert told the board that he had read the entire report of the Department of Transportation, a rather thick mass of pages, and had studied all the maps, a task with which he was quite familiar as he pored over many of them since the north-south, east-west freeway was introduced a number of years ago.

Since Breidert, as administrative assistant, is in constant touch with all village problems, he will brief the board on them prior to their regular meetings. The briefing sessions are to begin half an hour before the board sessions.

Larger mains coming?

FRANKFORT — Improvement of the Frankfort water system to give Connecticut Hills better fire protection as well as assure proper service when the village growth extends north along U.S. 45 was recommended by Trustee Wilbert Klier at the regular meeting of the village board Monday night.

The present four-inch main that runs north along White Street should be replaced with an eight- or 10-inch line, perhaps larger, he said, and a loop created from the Big Farmer plant on U.S. 30 to Elm Street, which would assure a water supply should it be necessary to shut off one of the feeders.

Klier said he has been talking with Village Engineer Robert E. Hamilton on the subject and Hamilton recommends the improvement. Hamilton is to be present at the meeting of the board July 24 and the subject is to be discussed further at that time.

There are plans for expansion of the water system through drilling a new well and erecting a new storage tank.

If this is done, Klier said, Hamilton suggested that the installation of a larger main to serve the north area of the community might be carried through at the same time for less cost than if they were done individually.

If it is decided to proceed with the improvements to the north, it was brought out, it may be necessary for the board to adopt an amendment to its appropriation ordinance. This proposed improvement is new and was not under consideration when the appropriations were set up. The appropriation ordinance was adopted Monday night by Village Attorney August J. Santoro said it could be amended if the action were taken in the first quarter of the fiscal year

MFT to pay for repairs

NEW LENOX — A resolution was approved by the village board for use of motor fuel tax money on a street repair and maintenance program. It has been estimated that the program will cost $17,521, but to take care of possible changes the total amount set forth in the resolution is $19,300.

Three streets are to be scarified, Prairie Street, from Haven to Second Ave., 850 feet; Church Street, between Haven and U.S. 30, 500 feet, and from U.S. 30 north, 250 feet.

Five streets are to receive sealcoats; Elm Street from Kimber to Wood, 700 feet; Pine Street, from Joliet Road to Central, 300 feet; Roy Street, from Joliet Road to Cedar, 600 feet; Joliet Highway, from Pine Street to a point 300 feet east, and Haven Avenue from U.S. 30 to Prairie, 400 feet.

Deadline is near for truck licenses

SPRINGFIELD — Only three days remain for owners of trucks and other second division vehicles licensed on a fiscal year basis, to obtain and display their 1972-73 plates, according to

Secretary of State John W. Lewis. Midnight of Saturday, July 15, is the deadline, Lewis said, and stressed it is a deadline for having the plates mounted on the vehicle, not merely applied for.

Mokena Fourth of July Festival queen was greeted with applause from spectators at the annual parade. The queen this year was Barbara Hostert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hostert.

It's still the 'Fourth' in Mokena

A three-time winner, Dave Merrick, one of Lincoln-Way's star runners and now a member of the University of Pennsylvania track squad home for the summer, won the annual Fred Lehmann 10-mile run at the Mokena Lions Fourth of July Festival for the third time. He is being presented with the trophy by Mrs. Marcella Lehmann, widow of Fred. Lincoln-Way's track coach, Joe Rodriguez, who trained Dave to become an excellent distance runner, was in charge of arrangements for the 10-mile run. Should one ever think the "Fourth of July" is no longer a part of the American Way of Life need only come to Mokena on the Fourth.

Crescent Newspapers had this car, courtesy Phillips Chevrolet of Frankfort, in the Mokena parade festooned in red, white and blue streamers and bunting. That's Shirley Nosal, director of display advertising at the HERALD office in Mokena and her passenger is Jean Bradley, editorial department.

Losers keep on winning

TINLEY PARK — As the Tinley Park Softball League season surged past the half-way mark, the division races began to shake out the top teams. The Losers again took a firm hold on first place in the Federal Division, but it looks like the Continental loop honors will go right down to the wire. With the announcement of the season end playoff schedule, the play takes on a new flavor as the teams jockey for position in the top four spots.

The competition for top spot in the Continental Division has been narrowed to just two teams. The Nickelbag Revised leads the Brotherhood by only one-half game as both clubs swept their contests this past week.

The Nickelbag Revised downed the Bears 11-5, and then received a gift win from the Knights who forfeited. At the same time the Brotherhood took wins from the Roadrunners, 22-7, and the Bombers, 18-6. Coming back from their week opening loss, the Roadrunners put two straight wins together in downing the Superchiefs, 13-11, and upsetting the Snappers, 12-9.

After a surprisingly easy 19-3 win over the Bombers the Losers then went on to breeze over the Bears, 24-6. The Bombers entered the week tied for first, but the Landlovers parlayed three victories to step into second place. Falling to the Landlovers were the Latecomers, 18-4, the Hustlers, 23-4, and the Lugans, 10-6.

Other Federal winners this past week were the Snappers in an 18-11 decision over the Superchiefs, and the Lugans over the Latecomers, 14-13. Also winning in the Continental Division were the Superchiefs in topping the Tappers, 9-7, and the Latecomers with a forfeit from the Hustlers, and the Tappers over the Knights, 19-14.

Blackjacks set pace in Gingerwood play

OAK FOREST — On Monday July 3rd The Gingerbrats at the end of the first inning against the Sagabojos had three runs behind the hot bat of Renee Humpal.

The Saga's were unable to score in the second and when the Brats came to bat they tallied nine times. Grace Gonzales scored the first Saga run in the top of the fourth but the Saga's couldn't bring in any more.

Brats Nancy Dzik, Kim Skowronski and Sue Wallace contributed to the 19-2

Knights streak ends at eight

NEW LENOX — Rich Central stopped an eight game Lincoln-Way winning streak Saturday with a 1-0 win over the Knights in the first game of a doubleheader. Lincoln-Way came back strong in the second game with an 8-1 win.

It took Rich 15 innings to set down the Knights who are now 8-2 in South Suburban Summer High School play and 10-4 overall.

The Knights got only five hits over the 15-innings in the first game. John Roach hurled the first 13 innings for the Knights allowing five hits and striking out 13.

Rich's Bob Border fanned 18 and allowed four hits in 12 innings.

Lincoln-Way came back strong in the second game using a nine hit attack to score four times in the first and twice in the second.

Russ Jones pitched two-hit balls and fanned 15. Roach aided the cause with a homer.

Earlier in the week the Knights blasted out a 9-3 victory over Romeoville for their eighth straight win. Don Krohn, came through with a pair of singles to drive in four runs.

Blake Tekotte and Bob Lindeman each got a pair of hits and drove in two runs.

lead going into the seventh inning. The Brats added two more in the top of the seventh.

When the Saga's came to bat pitcher Laura Shannon scored her second run. The Saga's started a rally and scored three more runs but the Brats had too much of a lead to overcome and the game ended with the Brats winning 21-6.

In Monday's game between the Blackjacks and the Sluggers the Blackjacks started off with a seven run first inning behind the pitching of Laura Kellerman, and kept adding runs until the fifth inning when the Sluggers started a rally with five runs.

Sluggers pitcher Chris Kohut pitched a good game, not giving up a walk. The Sluggers picked up five more runs during the sixth and seventh innings behind the hot bats of Sue Peterson and Michele Hope but wound up on the short end of a 20-10 score.

On July 5th the BJ's met the Brats and the good defense of the BJ's paid off again as they committed very few errors backed up by good hitting.

BJ pitcher Debbie Brentz pitched a strong game, allowing only two runs until the fifth when two more came across and three more in the sixth for the Brats.

Hot Brat bats were swung by Renee Humpal, Nancy Dzik, Doreen Cassidy and Rosemary Carabba. The Tough BJ's kept on their winning ways and won the game 19-7 to remain undefeated. BJ Debbie Biscan was out with a broken wrist.

In the game between the Sluggers and the Saga's the Sagas put eight runs across in the first and second innings before the Sluggers came to life, erupting for 11 runs, their biggest inning of the series thus far.

Sluggers pitcher Chris Kahut held the Saga's to no runs until the sixth when she gave up a run. The Slugs added five more in the third and two more in the fourth for their first win of the season, 18-9.

The Sluggers early season slump may be over and if it is they should make a good run for the title because they have five hitters batting over .500, one of them, Sherri Smith batting 1.000. The others over .500 are: Diane Biscan .800, Sue Peterson .733, Luann Rupsis .687 and Rose Kahut .562.

Sandburg ties for first

ORLAND PARK — The baseball Eagles of Carl Sandburg are flying high these days with a 9-3 record and a tie for first place with Blue Island Eisenhower, in summer baseball play.

Last week the Eagles dumped Oak Lawn 5-3, Joliet Catholic 5-0, and beat Reavis twice, 6-5 and 9-1.

Against Oak Lawn the Eagles were tied 3-3 before Steve Nelson drove a double to left field for the winning run. Jeff King worked all seven innings, striking out three and walking three and allowing only five hits.

Sophomore Tim Sipt hurled a shutout at Joliet stopping them on only two hits. Sipt struck out two and walked one.

Five Eagles had two hits apiece in the 13 hit attack. In the big showdown Saturday with the Reavis Rams, Sandburg banged out 17 hits in the two games to seal both victories. In the first game Steve Rodeck went five innings before giving way to Joe Stratta for the last three innings, in the overtime eight inning affair.

In the last of the eighth inning the Eagles had men on first and second with Crane D'Louly at bat. D'Louly responded with a tremendous drive that would have been a home run but since it scored the winning run, the hit went only as a double, but it still was good enough to win the game.

D'Louly had three hits in the game as did Bill Nicolai. Nicolai also hit a homer in the game.

In the second game, John Carroll went the distance, hurling a seven-hitter, with six strikeouts and a walk. Bill Nelson and Ron Weiland both posted two hits.

"We are hitting a lot better and we played great defense against Oak Lawn and Reavis, and boy did our centerfielder make a great catch in the eighth inning, Al Barnett made it look easy," said coach Ron Mellen.

Catcher Bill Nicolai is the teams' leading hitter with a .500 plus average. Sandburg hosted Quigley yesterday and then travels to La Grange, tomorrow.

Park team clips wings of Flying Falcons, 16-7

OAK FOREST — The Oak Forest Park District Team defeated the Flying Falcons 16to 7 July 5th at Convent Park. The park district team was led in hitting by Rick Potter with four hits including three doubles. Joe Werner, Steve Moss, Dave Moss, Jerry Grizek, Bob Carlson and Dave Berna each had two hits.

The Road Runners squeaked through with a win against the War Hawks 19-18 with the Road Runners scoring 19 runs on 23 hits.

Leading hitters for the Runners were Harold Frasher with a home run; Fasher with four RBIs and Bill Richardson with three RBIs. Fasher also had five for five, Mike Abbott had three for four and Richardson had three for four. Lynn Hawkins drove in the winning run in the bottom of the seventh with a rip single to left after two out and a man on second.

Hot bats for the War Hawks were Gregg Wolf - four for five - with a Homer, Double, Triple, Single and three RBIs. Rick Fitzgibbons went four for five with a Triple and three singles and Tom Scott went three for four with two doubles.

Unbeaten Giants set for Peanut playoffs

ORLAND PARK — The playoffs in the Orland Youth Association's Peanut League competition begins tomorrow night but at press time the National League's undefeated Giants did not know who they would be playing from the American League.

The first game of the best-of-five-series will be played Thursday, July 13, 6 p.m. The team taking the first three victories will be the playoff winner.

Playoff schedule is: Game 1: Thursday, July 13, 6 p.m. Game 2: Saturday, July 15, 1 p.m. Game 3: Sunday, July 16, 1 p.m. Game 4: Tuesday, July 18, 6 p.m. (If needed) Game 5: Thursday, July 20, 6 p.m. (If needed)

All games will be played on the south field at the junior high school.

The Giants have gone through the season undefeated but had the Braves in to meet in a final game Monday night. Even a loss to the Braves would not knock the Giants out of the playoff berth against the American League representative.

Celts lose pair

NEW LENOX — Providence suffered a double defeat Sunday at the hands of Joliet Catholic in South Suburban Summer High school play.

The Celts lost 8-5 and 4-2 to Joliet, and now have a 12-6 summer record. Joliet broke open a 5-4 lead game with a three run seventh in the first game, and broke a 1-1 tie with another three run seventh in the second game.

Cold weather fails to hamper POSA victory vs. Park Forest

PALOS-ORLAND — Despite the chilly 40 degree weather the Palos-Orland Swim Association swimmers swam their way to a victory over Park Forest July 5th.

The record breaking temperature and ice water failed to hamper the following youngsters who took first place ribbons: Jenny Bozich, Steve Yates, Kim Marousek, Joe Bozich, Una McDonnell, Andy Andrew, and Peggy Cox. Kidney patient doesn't give up

By Dave Lumley

ORLAND PARK — Bill Humpreys, a Carl Sandburg graduate this summer, lost both of his kidneys before he was 15-years old. Since this time Bill has had two complete kidney transplants and twice had surgery for repair of his tube which runs from the bladder to the kidney. Now Bill goes to the hospital for kidney treatment twice a week for five hours each time, he used to go for six hours three times a week.

At one time Humpreys was only two-tenths off the national record for swimming backstroke when he was eight years old in Santa Clara, Calif.

He came back to win the freshman conference meet when he was a freshman at Sandburg, and graduated with a B average. He was co-captain of the varsity swim team, a member of choir and choral, and lettered all four years on the swim team. Not bad for a person with no kidneys!

"What I have the doctors can't do much for, it just slowly progresses. I had to stop swimming when I was 12 because I always got headaches, when I went to the doctor they found the problem," said Bill. "I was rated high by the swim coaches in California and had a great future I guess."

I swam again as a freshman at Sandburg, and did well winning the conference meet. As a sophomore I got sick again, my kidneys had stopped working. The doctors didn't know what it really was so I had a transplant and went on the kidney machine for treatment," Humpreys said. Bill missed over three months of school when his new kidneys rejected and destroyed the tube which ran from the kidneys to the bladder. Bill returned to the swim team in mid-season of his senior year and was a big part of the Eagles championship team. Coach Alan Gillberg, said, "the courage and determination Bill showed was an inspiration to the team and they showed it by electing him co-captain."

Bill has been in Michael Reese Hospital. "I have so much faith in the medical profession. The biggest thing is not to give up. I thought there was no reason I couldn't lead a normal life, sure the doctors were surprised when they saw me swimming so was everybody, but you can't give up, you've got to get up and try," Humpreys said. Bill lives in Palos Park and is going to Valparaiso University in the fall. "I'm going to school in the fall and plan to live normally, the biggest things that helped me through were my parents and the doctors, my mom visited me every day for three months and the doctors always were there to brighten the day and raise my spirits," Bill said.

Humpreys is now making final arrangements for a place to put his

Nationals win All-Star game

ORLAND PARK — A homerun and two doubles by the National League All-Stars provided five runs in the bottom of the seventh and a 8-7 victory for the Nationals July 4 in the Peanut League All-Star game.

The Nationals picked up single runs in the second, and fourth before they nailed the game down with the five-run seventh. The game was scheduled for nine innings in comparison to the regular six-inning Peanut contests.

Pitching for the winning Nationals were Dave Buck, Dave Revord, Don Boadway, Dave Cronin and Howard Meter.

The American hurlers were Kevin Fulford, Joe Salemi, Tommy Evenson and Mike Slattery.

Arrest man for sale of fireworks

TINLEY PARK — A 57-year old Tinley Park man was arrested and charged with the illegal sale of fireworks July 4.

Police received an anonymous call that Charles Klinger, 7627 W. Nottingham was selling fireworks in his home.

Police at first set up a watch on the house, but saw nothing. Later Detective A. J. Merenowicz, and Officer William Kosinski went to the house in an unmarked car. Merenowicz rang the bell and was admitted to the house by an elderly woman.

Merenowicz, asked to buy fireworks, and when questioned as to who sent him said a relative from down the street.

In service

Navy Seaman Apprentice Dennis J. Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Peterson, 167th Street and Forest Avenue, Tinley Park, recently participated in the commissioning of the Navy's newest tank landing ship the USS Barnstable County, at the Long Beach, Calif., as a member of the ship's inaugural crew.

Klinger told Merenowicz he did not have many fireworks left, but when Merenowicz said he wanted to buy some Klinger went to get them.

According to Merenowicz, the couple told him that they had purchased the fireworks in Tennessee, and that they were illegal to sell in Illinois.

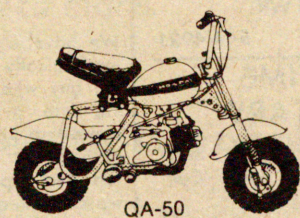

Klinger, returned with fireworks and Merenowicz paid for $17 worth of fireworks with marked bills. After the transaction Merenowicz identified himself as a police officer and took Klinger into custody.

$300,000 for missing airport study

Editor James Vesely and Staff Writer Doug Ray of the Arlington Heights Herald have explored the needs and the direction of Chicago's airport dilemma. In a four-part series they will present their findings.

Federal Aviation Administration officials say Chicago soon will need O'Hare Airport plus two more modern jet airports to handle anticipated jet traffic of the 1980s and beyond. The question is where and when these airports will come about.

A private consulting firm has been paid $300,000 by the State of Illinois for a mysterious airport study that only a handful of state officials have ever seen. In fact, top Springfield officials are unaware it is finished.

The airport feasibility study to determine the need for a third major airport in Chicago was done by Ralph M. Parsons Co. of Los Angeles in conjunction with an Urbana consulting firm last year. The project was authorized soon after a City of Chicago analysis showed that the airport should be constructed on the floor of Lake Michigan.

State officials were so anxious to have an airport report of their own that no federal monies were sought to help pay for the document.

And although the consulting firm has received payment in full from the state Bureau of the Budget, the report's contents remain as mysterious as in whose hands it now rests.

The Parsons study isn't the first of its kind. Study upon study has been compiled by researchers on the third Chicago airport during the last decade; and millions of dollars have been spent by the City of Chicago and three states in a search — and a race — for the best site for the jetport.

The Parsons Report, entitled Northern Illinois Airport Requirement and Feasibility Study, is the most elusive to the public as well as high-ranking politicians and aeronautics experts.

The state director of aeronautics, Alan Landolt, says he has not seen the report but he believes it is completed.

Jim Reed of the Bureau of the Budget in Springfield, who acknowledged the $300,000 payment, says the study is "in the rough draft stages... mostly analytical information."

The Parsons project director in Los Angeles who compiled the documentation says, "we have submitted a great deal of information" to the state.

Contacted in Los Angeles, the project director said the firm has stopped active work on the study since the first of the year. Parsons already "has expended the manpower for the job," he said, adding that the contract was for "labor and man-hours."

He contends that Parsons absorbed the cost of finishing up the work. "We are awaiting consideration from the state on what next," he said.

The Parsons official confirmed that the $300,000 had been paid.

The Los Angeles firm may incorporate the Northern Illinois Airport Study into another report awarded the firm by the State of Illinois, he said.

This one is for a statewide airport study at a cost of $540,000. The firm has 1 1/2 years to complete it.

According to state documents, the Northern Illinois Airport Study called for the completion in final draft by March 30, 1971.

Gov. Ogilvie's aides and the Department of Aeronautics have referred all questions regarding the study to John Robson, a special counsel to the governor on transportation and former undersecretary of transportation in former President Johnson's administration.

Robson said copies of the study "are in several state offices," but he does not have one of the documents. He called the study "a very complicated air traffic forecasting problem... we've had a lot of trouble getting it out."

According to Robson, the information submitted to the state "is a sophisticated and complex approach," that will be reviewed by state officials, including himself, and a final copy will be released to the public.

He would not give a date for the release but speculated it may take several months.

Gov. Ogilvie, through his chief counsel Robson, authorized the Northern Illinois Airport Study in 1970, after City of Chicago's own consultants produced feasibility studies showing that the lake airport was technically sound. Robson said several bids were received on the contract.

"The governor wanted to get under way real fast," said a high-ranking state official, who added that no federal funds were sought to help finance the $300,000 bill because of the rush for the study.

The study called for an analysis of future commercial airline needs in Northern Illinois.

The Parsons spokesman acknowledged the contract "was for commercial aviation exclusively." He said a report solely on commercial needs "may not have been the thing to do."

According to state documents given to prospective consulting firms that might acquire the contract in 1970, the purpose of the study was threefold:

—To examine future air traffic demand for the Chicago Metropolitan Area.

—To determine whether and when additional air carrier airport capacity or facilities in Northern Illinois will be required... and what alternatives there are to meet these requirements.

—To identify cost of the various alternatives and assess the economic feasibility for new air carrier airport facilities in Northern Illinois.

The Parsons official said "we reexamined the question of a third airport" adding that the "lake concept is perfectly feasible technically but there are environmental and human problems that must be taken into consideration."

He said: "There is no clear answer in the study." Robson said, "We may not be talking about a major airport."

While Illinois already has spent $300,000 and is in the midst of a $540,000 document, other nearby states have compiled similar data in an effort to determine where the third Chicago airport will be located.

Studies by James and Berger Associates of Indianapolis have established the regional airport should be in northwest Indiana near Crown Point, just south of the Gary-Hammond area.

Authorized by the Indiana Aeronautics Commission in 1971, the report compared Crown Point with several locations across the border in Illinois. Crown Point, according to this analysis, was the superior spot for the jetport.

At least three other airport studies have been completed for Indiana officials.

A Milwaukee area airport study is in the works in Wisconsin to determine the need for future airports there. It will be available by the end of the year.

If the Wisconsin document bears out the need for a third airport, the state has a 7-mile-square section of property just west of Kenosha that could readily be condemned for the jet port. It is Bong Field, an abandoned Air Force base where a substantial runway was begun, and sewer and light installations were installed before the Air Force decided the base was unnecessary. The land now is being used by the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources.

"Certainly we could condemn the land," said Kurt Bauer, executive director of the Southeast Wisconsin Planning Commission (SEWERPAC). "But we won't know until the state report is done."

J. E. Wenzel, now retired, was the director of aeronautics in Illinois when the Parsons study was sanctioned, but he recalls several other reports to state officials on the third Chicago airport.

He said experts had pinpointed an area near Peotone, Ill., as a good site for the jetport in Illinois. The land, just east of the small farming community between Joliet and Kankakee and less than 25 miles from Chicago, could tap the industrial Calumet-area market. Rail and highway transportation networks are located there, he added.

At least a half-dozen other Illinois jetport sites were discussed, Wenzel said, including areas southwest of Chicago, north of Evanston, and the Calumet area of Chicago.

He said the first consideration for a third Chicago airport began during Otto Kerner's term as governor and became more serious when Sam Shapiro held a short tenure as governor. The studies have continued into Ogilvie's governorship.

Several private developers have attempted to sell the idea of the jetport to residents of the small Illinois farming community at Peotone. Similar moves have been made by speculators for the Crown Point site in Indiana and at Bong Field in Wisconsin.

All of the proposals have been met with opposition from residents of the areas. But while the residents adamantly are against the jetport near their homes, officials in three states are trying to figure out why each of them needs it.

State boundaries are playing an integral part in the race to secure Chicago's third airport and some of the expensive, state-sponsored studies are considered self-serving and contradictory.

The City of Chicago, until recently, had pushed for a $400 million lake-bottom jetport as the answer to the apparent spiraling demands of air traffic in Chicago.

Mayor Daley now says a new facility won't be necessary until the year 2000. All other feasibility studies have shown airport is 1985; meaning that construction must begin in five years.

That mysterious $300,000 document being held under wraps by the state or possibly not even completed may provide an insight into the date another jetport will be needed.

The veteran aviation director of Illinois, J. E. Wenzel, contends "there will absolutely be a third airport." But he isn't sure where or when it will be constructed.

"You have to understand that these people put a lot of faith in reports," he said.

In Bosworth case

Official may set salary

By Michael J. Flynn

WILL COUNTY-Attorney General William G. Scott in a letter of opinion dated June 23, has ruled that Will County Treasurer Kent Bosworth has the power to fix the rate of compensation for each of his employees and that the Will County Board of Supervisors has the power only to appropriate a lump sum amount for the treasurer's office.

The Scott ruling brought to an end a difference of opinion between Bosworth and Finance Committee Chairman Richard Neiland that has been going on since February, 1971.

When Bosworth assumed the office of treasurer of Will County in January of 1971 he hired Ray Hemphill of Joliet as his chief deputy. The county salary for Hemphill's position was $11,550.00. Bosworth insisted upon a salary of $13,500.00 which Hemphill now receives after a one year battle which reached the Will County Courts.

Joliet Attorney Gerald Galowich, representing Bosworth, successfully argued before the courts and to the attorney general that elected officials whose offices were constitutionally provided for had a right to determine how funds appropriated for their offices were to be spent.

Will County States Attorney Louis Bertani argued that the county board had entered into a salary agreement by collective bargaining with Local 1028 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees for all county employees.

Although Bosworth pointed out that none of the employees in his office was a member of the union, Bertani insisted that the collective bargaining agreement prevailed over all employees and that salaries set for supervisory employees by the county board would apply.

After the ruling by Scott, States Attorney Bertani sent a letter to all elected county officials, who's offices were constitutionally provided for, advising them that he concurred with

BOSWORTH
WILL COUNTY
TREASURER

the Scott opinion and that in his opinion the ruling also applied to them. Those offices involved are sheriff, treasurer, states attorney, county clerk and clerk of the court.

Bosworth, along with all other county elected officers, must submit a proposed budget for 1972-73 to the finance committee by July 15. Chairman Richard Neiland has requested these proposed budgets be submitted line by line, naming each employee and noting each budgeted item. Bosworth has announced that his budget will be submitted by classification, not by employee name.

Speculation has arisen in many official circles that Bosworth may have won his battle but will lose the war. The county board could substantially cut the treasurer's budget if they chose to do so. Bosworth, commenting on the possibility, said, "If the Finance and Taxation Committee in a retaliation move cuts my projected budget by a considerable amount that would impair the operation of the treasurer's office, I will appeal to the people of Will County by a special voice vote that would insist that I be allowed to live within the concepts of my 1972-72 budget."

Local 1028 of the AFSCMEU, the union representing many county employees, may well be the big loser in this battle. Any county employees are not union members but, the union negotiated salaries applied to all employees of the county.

Bosworth's victory has upset the unions main bargaining position, temporarily. Bosworth made it clear that he has no objection if his employees want to join the union. It was noted, that joining the union and paying dues plus paying dues to the political party that sponsored their employment would create an undue financial burden on many and that the union membership was avoided by many for this reason.

Zoning permits nursing home

NEW LENOX — An amendment to the zoning ordinance of New Lenox has been adopted by the village board changing classification on a parcel of property south of U.S. and east of the Norfolk & Western Railway tracks from C-1 to C-2, which will permit location of a nursing home.

There also are other uses for C-2 zoned property but Martin Flanagan, the owner, told the Zoning Board of Appeals and the village board that the only use he intends to make of the property is for a nursing home.

Lewis Loebe, chairman of the Plan Commission and also a member of the zoning board, reported to the village council that the petition of Flanagan had been approved and the council concurred, following this up with amending the zoning ordinance.

The site of the proposed nursing home, according to the plat presented has the shape of a broad Y with the bottom leg reduced to a stump, pointed toward the railroad right-of-way. Flanagan told the board that it probably would be several months before he would be ready to ask for a building permit.

Loebe also told the council that the plans of Devcon Corp. for the Jackson Creek Subdivision on Laraway Road, west of Cedar Road, an 80-acre tract, have met village requirements but the commission has withheld action because of the uncertainty as to whether the land would be annexed to New Lenox or remain in its present unincorporated location.

There is a 200-acre proposed subdivision across the road from the Devcon property owned by Valleyview Corporation in which Bill Bolker, New Lenox contractor, is interested. The two properties are about a mile south of the village limits.

Sanger Westphal of the Devcon Corp. told the Plan Commission at its meeting last week, that his company is prepared to annex the property to the village if feasible or it will build under county jurisdiction, "whichever is most effective and of the best interest," he is quoted as saying.

Westphal said that Devcon has followed recommendations of the village plan commission, numbering lots and blocks, naming streets and adding to the sewage treatment plant area.

Westphal said the company plans to build 181 single family residences and 168 multiple family units "of the condominium type." A commercial area and a lake also are planned. Westphal said it was planned to have the subdivision completed by 1975.

Insurance office opens

WILL COUNTY—The beginning of Pioneer National Title Insurance Company's newest phase of expansion was marked with the recent opening of a Will County office. This announcement was made by James O. Hickman, senior vice president and manager of the company's Central Region.

Loebe also reported that Stonebridge, the Valleyview Corporation subdivision, also complies with village regulations but it is in the same boat as Devcon as far as the annexation question is concerned. It is possible, it was said, that the annexation question can be worked out.

George Reiter, engineer for the Cherry Hill Manor Subdivision, which is already a part of the village, appeared before the board to discuss providing that area with water. In behalf of the subdivision owners he offered the village a tract of land as the site for a well. It was accepted by the village board.

There are 50 acres in the subdivision now and it is likely that it will be extended, Reiter said in response to questions by board members.

Tentative approval to PUD

MOKENA — Tentative approval by the zoning board to the preliminary plans for the proposed development at the northeast edge of the village by the Webers, William Sr. and William Jr.,

has been granted.

Final approval cannot be given, it was explained by Robert Mason, village planner, until the legal descriptions are available for each of the segments.

This is a planned unit development in which there will be single family dwellings, multiple family dwellings and condominiums, a recreation area including a small lake and a clubhouse, and possibly some commercial area. There will be various zoning classifications set up but not until each has legal descriptions set up for the boundaries.

There are 52 acres in the proposed development that is bounded by Midland Avenue, Third Street, Schoolhouse Road and 191st Street. The zoning board has recommended that the line of single family dwellings be extended the entire length of Midland, as a buffer.

The zoning board also recommended that the pre-annexation agreement include donations for the schools and recreation, to which the Webers had previously agreed.

The Webers also own 40 acres on the east side of Schoolhouse Road but this is not included in the present plans as the area appears on the zoning map as designated for light industry.

The plans call for a total of 760 dwelling units, or a total gross density of 10.7 units per acre. The zoning board went along with the action taken earlier by the village board to allow a density of not to exceed 11 units per acre.

When 60 units are built, the zoning board has recommended and the village board has decreed, the developers must extend a sewer main along 191st Street to serve the property. The first 60 units can be served by hooking up with the sewer serving the Revere Street area, it was decided at the previous village board session.

The land use plan submitted at the zoning hearing was drawn up by Duane E. Linden Architects and Associates, of Lansing. If the legal descriptions of the various segments making up the development are ready before the next regular meeting of the zoning board, it was said, the Webers might ask for a special session. The next regular meeting of the Zoning Board of Appeals will be Aug. 2.

Hobbs is planner

NEW LENOX — Harry Hobbs, vice president of the New Lenox grade school board has been given another public post. He has been appointed to the plan commission and zoning board to replace John Brent. The appointment, made by Mayor Joseph Hartung was approved by the village board.

Brent resigned, stating that the press of other activities and business requires him to readjust his time.

Hobbs is associated with a brokerage house in Chicago.

Festival planned

FRANKFORT — Allocation of spaces for exhibitors at the annual Fall Festival to be held Sept. 2-3, was one of the main topics before the members at the regular meeting of the Frankfort Chamber of Commerce last week.

The group had a dinner meeting at the LaPosads Cafe and with a lot of preparatory work to be gotten out of the way before festival time is here that was the principal item of business discussed.

The Chamber will operate a German style beer garden. Those in charge plan to place it on a street so there will be a hard surface for dancing.

Some dissatisfaction was expressed by some because some trees and flowers planted by the chamber apparently withered away through neglect, and a complaint will be registered with the village board.

Flood relief nears $5,000

WILL COUNTY — Cash contributions to the Red Cross flood relief fund have totaled almost $5,000 to date, according to Wellington S. Smith regional Red Cross who called local contributions "most generous."

It has been estimated that 16,000 families in Pennsylvania, 16,000 in New York and 4,000 in Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland will need Red Cross help in getting back to normal living. Following recent floods.

Emergency relief to flood victims at the height of the disaster cost Red Cross $5-million and estimated cost of rehabilitating the flood area is now set at $15-million.

Faith Lutheran Church, Joliet, donated $150, collected in a special appeal to its membership to the flood relief funds. Individual contributions, are chiefly in the range of $5 to $50, which is somewhat larger than in past disasters, Smith said. The eastern floods followed close on the flash floods at Rapid City, S.D. Six hundred trained Red Cross workers and thousands of volunteers are on duty in the widely separated flood zones, the Red Cross reported.

Contributions may be sent to Red Cross Flood Relief, American Red Cross, 222 N. Broadway, Joliet, 60435. All donations go directly to the disaster area to help victims return to normal living conditions.

Mrs. Theresa Schofield, president of the Mokena Community Library, who arranged the bookmobile to visit Arbury Hills termed the first visit a success.

Board okays roadwork

NEW LENOX — Relative to the widening of U.S. 30 through the business area of New Lenox by the state highway department, the village board at its recent session voted approval of the plans.

Trustee Lutz M. Guenther made the motion to accept the plans and to endeavor to work out parking places. Parallel parking is required by the state. If parking spaces cannot be spotted along the highway, Guenther suggested that the village buy space for off-street parking.

There was an estimate by state engineers that 20 parking strips could be located along U.S. 30. It was estimated that the cost of these might average about $1,000 each. This part of the improvement will have to be paid for by the village. Guenther suggested that if $20,000 is to be spent it might be more practical to buy a lot for parking.

U.S. 30 at its present width through the village causes considerable traffic congestion at periods, it was pointed out.

Cars stack up at the traffic lights at Cedar Street on U.S. 30 and if a train is blocking Cedar, a short block north of U.S. 30 there will be a line of cars several blocks in length east and west. Widening the highway, it was explained, will provide a storage lane for cars destined to turn north on Cedar.

There are some, especially those who have business establishments along U.S. 30 who are opposed to the move on the grounds that potential customers will pass them up for lack of parking.
